SS# 14 ROCKPORT

The Rockport Recreation Centre began as the fourth and final Rockport School, S.S.#14. The previous school was on the Old River Road across the street from the Roy Fair property.

As early as 1907 the school had been condemned by the Inspector. However the local ratepayers rejected the idea to build a new school. In 1909 some renovations were completed which allowed the school to stay open. By 1924 it was obvious that the school could not handle the enrolment of fifty students so plans were made to erect a new facility.

The most suitable site was owned by Mrs. William Fair, who at first was reluctant to sell. She, as well as a number of other citizens, thought that this suggested site directly across from the cemetery was not appropriate. However, she finally did agree and the 1.5 acre parcel of land was purchased for $500. The tender of Mitchell and Wilson was accepted for $10500. The architect was Stewart Allister of Brockville.

The cornerstone was laid in August of 1925 with many local residents present. Blueprints revealed a brick structure with double front entry doors, a front porch, a fully finished basement and six long windows mostly on the south side of the school. The idea was to use the basement as a playroom and community hall.

The Senior room was to have been an office and teacher's lounge. But immediately many parents who had sons or daughters who were ready to move on to High School lobbied to have an additional teacher hired who could teach secondary subjects. These students would normally have gone to Gananoque, Lansdowne, Brockville or Athens, at considerable expense to their parents.

Thus Rockport S.S.#14 became a two-room school with the Junior grades 1-5 and the Senior room 6-10. In 1927 the side porch and entry was added. The first two teachers were Vera Fitzsimmons and Freda Collier. Teachers didn't stay long and were often replaced at Christmas, as that's when contracts expired.

The school basically remained the same until 1939 when construction of the Scenic Highway [Parkway] began. Despite considerable debate as to the actual route the Parkway would take the provincial government eventually bought a portion of the school property to the south. With the $500 they received, land to the north and east was purchased and fenced. As part of a beautification competition in 1941 many small trees were planted as a windbreak.

The school was closed in 1965 and all students were transferred to newly built Escott P.S.

Memories of Rockport School House Circa 1958 - 1964 - Michael William De Wolfe

Roger Hodge was my best friend we played together a lot, I still remember him throwing marbles at the brick school house until (#%$@(*&" %) one hit him on the head! Roger also had the misfortune of falling off backwards from the 2nd. floor senior room porch. He recovered but did have a headache for days.

Ricky Huck was my best friend we played together a lot, I still remember his dark eyes and dark hair and sneaky smile. His mother made the best brownies.

Rosemary Caiger was one of the prettiest girls with a big smile and lots of bouncing curls. I still remember Blind Mans Bluff. Rosemary ran like ants were in her pants until she ran into the corner of the big red school house. She missed school for days but survived the ordeal with a big goose egg.

Margaret Bolger had the reddest hair and a temper to match, pleasant but don't push your luck. Very athletic and fast on her feet. She always had better marks than most kids.

Eugene Johnson was very slick and tried to stay one step ahead of the school authorities. Unfortunately his bicycle let him down and he lost an eye in a collision with a car. Eugene made the best of it and sometimes the glass eye would somehow pop out during school and he would have to go home early.

Mrs. (Audrey) Newell was a kind and gentle teacher and always put her students first, although I do remember her pointing out the errors of my way several times a week.

Ms. (Media) Hill was a tall woman with neat freckles all over her face with reddish hair. She was a good teacher and somehow I had a nervous condition that caused my knee to bounce and she would have to sit on my knee to calm me down (didn't work).

Jim Kellar was the principal and came to our school early in his career. My mom made a welcome cake and the next day he stayed home sick! On a nice sunny day in November 1963, Mr. Kellar was dozing in his convertible car in the school yard when we woke him up to hear his car radio announce the President of the United States of America had been shot in Dallas, Texas!!!

Senior students would chase junior students to the east side of the property and in the spring water floods would force us to walk the page wire fence of the Hubert Fair property (he became my father in law) while they picked us off with hard pine cones that had not opened up yet!!!

Baseball games against La Rue Mills was a huge event that scared me as these students were like people from a foreign land (I didn't know it was only 5 miles away).

Snow forts and tunnels in the school yard was a winter ritual, wet mitts on the floor register drying until they were stiff as boards.

Ice storms so that we could skate to school down the gravel north lane catching the odd stone, stumbling, getting up and going again.

Tar pit on the north lane from highway paving, standing until shoes almost would not come out.

Lunch pails that were peanut butter cans with a tight lid and wire handle.

Spring clean ups that was lots of work but no school books and chasing girls all day. I

Julie Fair fell and broke her arm resulting in me suspected as the cause (1 married that girl).

Christmas concert ritual the 3 wisemen, carols, anxious parents and teachers. I sang silent night solo and thought I would die. My dad played Santa but was found out due to his black and blue thumb he had hit just the day before with a hammer.

School Closing 1964 - the long bus ride north to Escott arriving at that huge red school house that looked too long and too low. The Escott road was under construction at the time, I think it was being paved for the first time?

John Keats is an American writer whose children have had the benefit of some of the most modern schools in North America:

---

But for two years they attended a small, two-room school in rural Ontario.

Of course we have memories of the schoolhouse, the teachers and the Rockport children, and a perfectly clear knowledge that it was in Rockport, more than any other place, that our children acquired their basic attitude toward education and formed their work habits, and received a first-rate elementary instruction in a small, simple school of singular human warmth.

We have been distressed to hear that our section of Ontario--in which we are now but summer residents- is in some danger of coming down with a case of United States-style educationitis. The suggestion has been made to do away with the tiny one- and two-room rural schools, in favour of large, centrally located consolidated schools. One hears rumours of impending curricular reforms that sound distressingly like attempts to accommodate the school's standards to the imaginary incompetence of the children, instead of being attempts to require the students to accommodate themselves to ever-rising standards of the schools. It is certainly not our desire to enter into an educational argument in a nation where we are guests, but we cannot view the tiny rural schoolhouse as a wholly bad institution. If it is true that little Rockport, with its limited means, followed a rigid pattern of instruction designed to be impervious to- the worst efforts of the world's most incompetent teacher, it must nevertheless be said that the end result was a sound schooling in the building blocks of learning. Something must be said for the much- maligned little red schoolhouse, and for "reading, writing, and arithmetic/ taught to the tune of a hickory stick."

WHAT I REMEMBER ABOUT ROCKPORT SCHOOL

I remember:

- We played downstairs in the basement on rainy days. It was all cement and when recess was over you couldn't see across the room for cement dust.
- Hot lunches consisted of one dish only. They were made on a wood cookstove. Dishes were washed in a dishpan and the water dumped outside.
- There were no flush toilets; there was a wash basin at the back to clean your hands.
- The Senior room was cold if a northeast wind was blowing in the winter. The temperature was often just above freezing but we were not sent home.
- Mr. Thresher was our Music teacher, he came once a week.
- At Christmas we put on concerts, also again in the spring.
- When we arrived at school in the morning our work for the day was neatly written on the blackboards. In particular I remember long rows of numbers to be copied and added.
- In the Senior room we had sewing and craft classes. That is when I learned to embroider, which I still enjoy to this day.
- In grade 4 we were introduced to writing with ink. Then we used straight pens and bottles of ink. That was when blotters came into play, it could be very messy.
- At that time you had to buy your own books and supplies. We learned at a young age to take care of them.
- There were no copy machines. If work was given to us on sheets of paper they had been copied on a hectograph. The first sheets were quite clear, but later ones became fainter and harder to read.
- We had a dress code. The girls all wore dresses but no one was allowed to wear a hat in school.

- If we had recess outside, the girls lined up on one side of the sidewalk according to grade and the boys on the other side. The girls had their own cloakroom and the boys theirs.
- If there was a funeral across the road at the cemetery that day we didn't get recess.
- At the end of school in June we went to the Grove for a picnic that was the only field trip we had. . ' .
- Arbor Day was held in the spring, that was when we raked and cleaned the school yard.
- Every Fall we had a day off school for the teacher's convention. We also got a half day for the Lansdowne Fair. -
- The highlight of the year for me was when the library books arrived from Miss Eaton - a book critic from New York City. She, being a summer resident, sent us copies of all the books she had critiqued over the year. They had to be unpacked, catalogued with a corresponding number on the spine, before being assigned shelf space. .
- There were no school buses. In grade 1 I walked over a mile with the snowbanks higher than me.
- There were no detentions or suspensions. The teacher took care of all the problems.
- There was no milk to buy at school. I remember carrying a thermos in my lunchpail. I never remember forgetting it at home or school.
- When grade 8 students were getting ready for high school they had to pass Entrance Exams written in Mallorytown.

BOOKS!

A person who had a profound influence on the school was Miss Anne T. Eaton. She was a teacher by training but never taught at SS #14 Rockport. Her impact here was as a librarian and well-known literary critic, specifically of children's literature. Though she lived in New York City, she was a summer resident of Tar Island/or much of her life. Many of her books found their way into the homes of local friends. She also generously donated books to the school library, helping it maintain a high level of current literature. Thanks to her the number of books in the school rose from 734 in 1934 to well over 2000 by 1944. The young people of the community took great advantage of these materials, take a look at pages from the Sign-Out book.

It was not long before our children adapted themselves to Canadian ways; before Chris understood the difference between English and United States spellings; before Margaret had caught onto pretty Miss Stuart's Highland burr and — United States theories notwithstanding — discovered it was possible for a second grader to learn to write as well as to print. Indeed, during the next two years, our children learned a good many other things in that two-room Ontario country school that they would never have learned had they always attended the impersonal, million-dollar, cement factory of a consolidated school that they had known in Maryland. They returned to Maryland far ahead of their classmates in every subject, and here it must be said that their Maryland school enjoyed an A-1 rating by United States standards. More important, however, the Canadian school presented our children with a concept absolutely new to them; the idea that hard work and discipline might have something to do with acquiring an education. And just as important as this, Rockport school also gave them a proper view of their place in life; a sense of their obligations to themselves, and a great view of what people could do for one another when they found themselves in a situation where nothing was being done for them by anyone else.

THE VERY LAST CLASS - ESCOTT, HERE WE COME !

Rockport Recreation Centre 1965 - 2001

The early 1960's brought about the closing of many smaller schools in the province, particularly in rural eastern Ontario. For the students and parents of Rockport this presented a new challenge.

Like many small schools S.S. 14 Rockport had been the hub of the community since its inception. Wedding receptions, showers, funerals, card parties, etc. had occurred on weekends and evenings since 1925.

With the onset of construction of Escott P.S. in 1964 debate amongst Trustees about the fate of the forty year old building became intense. Most of the elected officials wanted to sell it privately to raise money. But after some very passionate pleas from community members the Trustees were persuaded to transfer the school to the yet to be formed Rockport Recreation Committee. There was however a clear understanding that if the Hall could not sustain itself it would revert back to Escott Township Council.

The initial meeting to transform S.S. 14 Rockport P.S. into a community hall was held on Jan. 26th, 1965. Under the guidance of Tom Massey a Ratepayer's Association, which later became the Community Hall Committee, was formed to facilitate this transition. An executive was elected and a sub-committee was struck to approach Council regarding the taxes on the hall. A card party was planned for the community for Feb. 3rd.

Over the next few months meetings were held almost weekly as enthusiasm in the community grew. Donations were forthcoming. The key issue was whether to lease or buy the school. At the first official Community Hall meeting on March 15th the decision was made to enter into an agreement with Escott Township Council to buy the school for $1.00. The Committee sought legal advice from Ron McFarlane of Gananoque. A further meeting with a representative of the Community Program Branch of the Department of Education was necessary to finalize terms of the agreement.

The deed that was drawn up entrenched the new name of the "Rockport Recreation Association". In early May a draft constitution was approved which delineated the objects of the new organization. As well an "An Agreement of Usage" form for rentals was created. During these busy times another group was working on the Grand Opening. The involvement of the U.C.W., the Women's Institute, the Anglican Church and the Catholic Women's League aided in these plans.

At an emergency meeting held on May 18th Hall renovations was the main topic. From the minute books it was obvious that this was a very lively meeting with reprimands for some members of the Executive and dissension in the community evident. The issue of insurance was resolved with the lowest tender: being accepted. Dances were planned for every Saturday night through the summer. One of the earliest events held in the hall was Harold DeWolfe's daughter's wedding.

At the June regular meeting a sale was planned for Aug. 7th to sell off the desks. Two blackboards were given to Escott P.S. and the Rockport United Church. A draft membership card was produced. A piano was donated by Mrs. Eddie Johnston's sister. A serving counter for the kitchen and a stage for the orchestra were to be completed over the summer.

The financial statement for August showed a balance of $62.00 in the Dance report and in the Recreation Association account $194.78. Bingos became a regular event over the next few months as well. In the fall of 1965 the bank balance grew and new chairs were purchased. Plans were made for a Hallowe'en party for the children and an Art Exhibition was scheduled for Dec. 2nd. There were numerous discussions regarding a rink on the grounds including a donation of $100.00 from Harold Harvey of Kingston. The Women's Institute donated $15.00 towards lights for the rink and further bingos and dances were held to fundraise for this cause. However nowhere in the records is it apparent that a rink was built.

The Recreation Association involved itself in a number of other local issues. They approached Council with the concept of forming a fire department. They also lobbied strongly for stricter enforcement of a speed limit in Rockport. As well they explored the possibility of forming a Municipal Recreation Committee.

At the end of their first official year of operations the bank balance, as reported at the April 4th General Meeting was $29.91.

APRIL 2, 1965.

Rockport School Sold To Citizens

ROCKPORT (Special) — A citizen's committee last night purchased the vacant Rockport school for $1 from the school board.

The Front of Escott Township School Board was unanimous in giving consent to selling the $10,000 school which has been vacant since Feb. 1.

A committee of Rockport residents, headed by Mrs. Henry Muller, is planning to turn the 40-year-old building into a community centre to be used by organizations and for social events.

Regarding financing the operation of the centre, an official of the citizens committee, Gerald Huck, said today, "We haven't really come to anything conclusive. Plans are still in the talking stages."

Mr. Huck, committee vice-chairman, said the group is discussing possibilities of fundraising projects, soliciting money from local residents and asking the municipal council's support so that a provincial grant may be obtained.

No major alterations are planned now for the brick school on the north side of Highway 401 in this 1,000 Islands community west of Brockville. The school was left vacant in February when pupils were transferred to the new consolidated school at Escott.

Hubert Mallory, school board secretary, has said that two or three verbal bids had been made for the building, one of them for $10,000. It was considered to have a valuable location, being just off Highway 401.

Mrs. Elmer Andress is secretary of the community centre group; treasurer is Mrs. Everett Terrel. The committee has held several meetings since February in an attempt to secure the school.

The building will be made available to women's community and church groups and any other organization for their meetings and special projects.

ONE OF THE FIRST EVENTS IN THE HALL !

VALUABLE PAINTINGS TO VISIT Rockport

The Rockport Recreation Association ~~Art Club~~ is pleased to announce that Mr. Paul Bennett, B.A., B.S.W., M.Ed., Director of The Art Institute of Ontario, is bringing a collection of valuable paintings to Rockport for an evening programme on art on Thursday, the 2nd of December. Last year Mr. Bennett visited more than fifty towns and cities within Ontario and lectured to over ten thousand people.

Mr. Bennett will carry a collection of ten original Canadian works of art. These paintings, all painted within the last twenty years, will range from landscapes to abstracts. The collection has been assembled especially for this lecture tour. The pictures are large, bold, imaginative, varied in technique, and emphasize qualities that make them suitable for study purposes. The artists represented are Alan Collier, Kazuo Nakamura, William Roberts, Harold Town, Tony Urquhart, William Winter, William Ronald, Ann Savage, and Frank Palmer. The collection has been secured from public galleries such as The Art Gallery of Toronto, industries such as Union Carbide and Imperial Oil, and the artists themselves. The value of the collection runs to many thousands of dollars.

Mr. Bennett will lecture on these paintings and illustrate his points by means of slides of other works of art by the same artists. He has requested that local artists bring their own paintings to the meeting and he will be pleased to meet this group at the end of the public lecture and give a criticism of these works.

The Art Institute of Ontario has a programme of fifty travelling exhibitions. These shows had over three hundred and fifty individual bookings last year and were viewed by more than three hundred thousand people. This exhibition programme and Mr. Bennett's lecture tours are the result of grants being secured by the Art Institute from the Province of Ontario Council for the Arts and the Canada Council.

The meeting is open to all members of the public interested in art. It is hoped that High School students will be able to attend.

*Several artists from the surrounding District attended the exhibition.
Light refreshments were served.*

A fascinating fact about the Recreation Centre was that it has had two official openings. The first took place on Sat., June 8, 1965 when the initial transfer took place. The second occurred ten years later, Sat., June 7th, 1975 when a Rededication Ceremony was performed.

By 1973 discussions regarding upgrades and renovations were well underway. A Walkathon had raised $250.00 and consideration of applying for a LIP grant to finance the majority of the project was being fleshed out. Through the spring of 1974 estimates from contractors were requested and the newly formed 1000 Islands Friendship Club [Seniors Club] formally applied for the grant known as the New Horizon Program. As well as renovations new furniture and furnace were needed. Recreational supplies and first aid kits were also included in the application. Approval came in October of 1974 in the form of $22331. Over the next year the renovations were completed.

At both the first opening in 1965 and the Rededication in 1975 former students and their parents came to see the improvements that had transformed the school into a well - equipped and inviting Community Centre.

VOLUNTEERS

Marguerite Allen named Citizen of the Year by Chamber

ROCKPORT (Staff) — Marguerite Allen of Rockport was selected Citizen of the Year by the Thousand Islands Chamber of Commerce meeting here at the recreation centre

Chamber president Bruce Martin announced in front of approximately 60 people the award was the first time the chamber has ever done it. He said the chamber decided to give it to one who everybody thought deserved it.

Mrs. Allen or "Marg" as she was referred to at the meeting, was presented as the ideal citizen.

Mr. Martin said, "I can't think of anyone in the area who has done more for the community than Marg."

He said there wasn't anything which she didn't get into which she didn't enter willingly.

Scouts, cubs, women's groups, senior citizens, community activities and fund raising were among a few of the activities Mr. Martin named.

He said Mrs. Allen was the key person for renovating the Rockport Recreation Centre.

If it weren't for her, it wouldn't have been done he said.

Mrs. Allen has also given freely of her time to cater to the Thousand Islands' Lions Club and the Chamber.

"She works her butt off... well, almost," Mr. Martin said after some thought.

Mrs. Allen said she was completely surprised by the chamber's move saying she had no indication that she would be the recipient.

A standing ovation and the song "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" were rendered by chamber members and guests.

Mr. Martin said Mrs. Allen would be presented with the official award at the January meeting.

He said he hoped the award would become an annual event with the chamber.

ROCKPORT RECREATION HALL NEWS

This fall has been busy for a number of volunteers that have been helping with hall renovations. The big hall upstairs has been painted and the Men's Breakfast Club will be cleaning and painting the kitchen, cupboards and all. The stair project will start in January and the remainder of work upstairs will be completed that month as well. We hope to get new curtains for the windows and the blackboards and the wood floor sanded. All this, and the newly installed carpet, should make the hall a more pleasing place for users and visitors alike.

The annual general meeting was held in October and we would like to introduce you to the new Executive for the 1996-97 and 1997-98 terms:

Mike De Wolfe	Chairperson
Meg Mallory	Vice-Chair
Orma Allen	Treasurer
Joanne Monteith	Secretary

A special thank you to all the groups that use the hall for their continued support. If you would like more information about the hall you can attend the meetings held the second Wednesday of the month at 7:30pm or contact one of the Executive.

ROCKPORT WINTER CARNIVAL FEBRUARY 14TH, 15TH AND 16TH

The first meeting of the 16th annual Rockport Winter Carnival was held last week and we should see a fun-filled weekend this year. New to the schedule will be a vintage snowmobile exhibit and the re-introduction of cross country skiing. We will also have back again chicken bowling, snolf, poker run and horseshoes to name a few events. We are always looking for volunteers to help us out before and during the carnival. This year we hope to make 800 buttons for this great event. The next meeting is at 7:00pm at the Boathouse on January 15th. If you want more information on the carnival please contact:

ROCKPORT—The Rockport Recreation Association has been patiently waiting for financial assistance for some time; on March 20, a $45,000 cheque from the Trillium Foundation was awarded for improvements at the community building.

"This Trillium grant is the result of a two-year concerted effort by the Rockport Recreation Association (RRA), council and community members to research and develop a project that will make a positive contribution to the community," RRA Vice-president Meg Mallory told a crowd who gathered here last week for the official cheque presentation.

"We're really excited about the improvements," she added. "It's been a long time in the works."

Leeds-Grenville MPP Bob Runciman was on hand for the presentation and was asked to say a few words.

"It's a great pleasure for me to be here to congratulate you on your effort and this is a celebration of the community and its volunteers," said Mr. Runciman. "This room is full of volunteers and you are so important to any community...especially one like this."

cessible for the elderly and physically challenged, said Ms. Mallory.

A ramp will be built and a new step will join two existing ones, making it easier for wheel chairs to manoeuvre, she added.

"Handicap accessible washroom facilities for the first and second floors have been upgraded already, and we will replace the exterior entrance steps for safety reasons as well," said Ms. Mallory.

Construction on the second phase of the project is expected to start in May.

"The washrooms cost about $25,000," said Ted Bootsma, a member of the RRA. "The outside steps will be about another $20,000."

The Rockport Recreation centre was established in 1968 to provide a meeting place and activity centre for all members of the community and to promote and foster a community spirit, Ms. Mallory said.

"The centre is a focal point for community activity and about 600 volunteer hours throughout the year maintain the building and a host of events."

Randy Frith, also a member of the RRA, gave a brief history on the community building.

"It wasn't until 1923 that a decision was made to build a new school," Mr. Frith said. "Many locals opposed the site because of the cemetery directly across the road. It was built for $10,150."

The building remained a school until the early 1960s when the students moved to the brand new Escott Public School.

"From the beginning, community has been actively involved in the use and maintenance of the hall," said Mr. Frith.

"Under guidance and direction of the recreation centre committee, and particular individuals, the building has survived and flourished."

Money raised through memberships (there are about 50 members), rentals and support from local organizations like seniors, (originally the men's Institute), the basketball clubs, Lions and Lions clubs, the recreation centre has sustained a core of volunteers who have supplied countless hours of time, Mr. Frith said.

"It's thanks to grants like today's that we all hope (the building) will live to a old age," he said. "It stands as a place for children to keep it for the children of our future."

Linda Thom, a board member with the Ontario Trillium Foundation, said the foundation is an agency of the Ministry of Tourism, Culture and Recreation.

"With $100 million in annual funding from the province's charitable gaming initiative, the foundation provides grants to eligible charitable and not-for-profit organizations in the culture, sports, recreation, environment and social service sectors," said Thom.

Reunion planned for Rockport students

by Mike Siskin, 15/10/00

If you went to Rockport School, reunion organizers want you

ROCKPORT—The first reunion of students of the Rockport School is planned for Sept. 8.

Today the school is known as the Rockport Recreation Centre and is still the heart of the community as it has been since it opened in 1925.

"Everybody thinks this is a wonderful idea," says organizer Marjorie Mallory, who was a student at the school.

The school had two classrooms. One served Grades 1 to 5 and the other, Grades 6 through 10.

"It was rather unique because it had two years of high school," recalls Ms. Mallory.

The reunion idea was hatched from her work at preserving the recreation centre. While contemplating a fund-raising venture, Ms. Mallory's daughter had an idea.

"She thought that we should send out notices and I thought, 'okay, let's do a reunion at the same time,'" says Ms. Mallory.

Some 150 invitations have been sent out. A problem is finding some of the female students who changed their names when they married.

"But we found a lot of them," she said.

Ms. Mallory is working from two record books, but says she knows there are more around. She is appealing to anyone with records from the school to contact her so she can send invitations to all of the several hundred former students.

"I'm also looking for pictures of kids who went to school there," she adds.

If you can help with either records or photos, call her at 659-3452. Helping her are Orma Allen at 659-3429 and Frances Birt at 659-2874.

The school, now the recreation centre, serves many community organizations today. A Trillium grant helped make the building and wash-rooms handicapped accessible.

Ms. Mallory says there is a need to fund-raise for the on-going maintenance of the structure.

The fund-raising project will involve the creation of a book that reflects the history of the building and those who attended school there.

"It's been really neat," says Ms. Mallory of the reunion experience to date.

Invitations and flyers were sent out and many former students and staff came to enjoy the festivities!
