March 2021 Co-President's Letter

Happy St. Patrick's Day and Happy Spring! We hope this message finds you all doing well, feeling healthy and experiencing peace...especially amidst the chaotic and destructive orders being delivered by the current administration. We want you all to know how grateful we are for you and for your faithful membership in the Federation. We know that it is your membership and our ability to band together that we will not only be able to embrace, but we will also boldly face these challenging times with courage, determination, and resolve.

Let's remember Winston Churchill who so bravely stated to his people during the nine months of The Nazi bombardment on London and the strategic sites all over England at the beginning of WWII..."we will never give up". That statement of determination was vital to keep British people believing, fighting and hopeful. He faced the reality of the Fascist Nazi existential threat, and he believed his people could also face it. He led them to be strong and prepared physically, emotionally, and spiritually. With his leadership they did just that amidst tremendous odds. We will too!

We attended the CFRW Conference Saturday March 13th and it was informative, encouraging, and inspiring. The theme of this Conference was "Soaring into 2021, Inspired, Unstoppable and Unified". We wish you all could have been there to hear what we heard and experience such wonderful speakers such as RNC Chair Ronna McDaniel, CA Congressman Devin Nunes, Candace Owens, Congressman Kevin Kiley, TN Senator Marsha Blackburn, Trevor Louden, and Tom Del Becharro, to name a few.

We learned so much that we cannot possibly relay to you in a message. We will, however, endeavor to share as much with you as possible as we make plans for future programs and events that we trust will relay and support the ideas and strategies we gleaned. CFRW is planning to make the videos, sessions and speakers remarks available on the CFRW website...stay tuned. In under 50 days the new administration has delivered numerous executive orders that are reversing so many accomplishments our beloved President Trump worked to achieve so boldly and tirelessly. Like us, you may be saying ...What now? What can we do? ☺ Well, we learned a lot this weekend about 'where we are' ... and 'what we can do'. There's HOPE and we will share what we learned. We strive to lead you boldly.

Our Number One priority is growing our membership. We currently have over 150 members and we would like to grow that substantially so we can influence more and more women and men, especially the younger generation. With the threat of socialism and Marxism we more than ever need to 'double down' our resolve and efforts to teach and reinforce the Conservative values that forged our unique Nation. These values have granted us freedoms the world has never known. Many people risk their lives to come here.

President Trump boldly stated that "we will never be a socialist nation". Until he returns, it is up to us to stand for and fight for the Freedoms we hold so dear. When we bring in more guests, our family, friends and acquaintances, we not only give them a wonderful opportunity to experience the joys we do ...but we also help grow our 'grassroots army' to take back CA and take back our Nation.

Please stay connected with us! Read our Alerts for Action on upcoming key legislation that our webmaster Tedi Cox sends out; read our monthly Newsletter that Mary Nesbitt works so diligently on for us; attend our General monthly meetings to keep inspired and motivated; consider getting more involved and lastly, please consider joining one of our committees that suits your gifts and talents. We need you! ☺

May God Bless you ALL and may Almighty God bless and protect our humbled Nation.

Warmly, Sheryl Franke and Pat Micone, your TARWF Co-Presidents

Membership Report

Since our February edition, we are happy to announce our newest members and to give a warm "Welcome!" to: Barbara Jansen of Mission Viejo, and Katie Zastera of Garden Grove! As of now, we have 136 regular members and 25 associate members! Although we have passed our renewal deadline date for publication in our 2021 roster, we will still happily welcome back the very few who did not renew in time!

Thank you to everyone who purchased from Pampered Chef last month. The entire commission was donated to our TARWF treasury.

This month at our luncheon meeting we will have a White Elephant Sale. Please bring gently used or new items to be sold in the same fashion as our Silent Auction. A table will be set up with bid sheets. These are always fun. One woman's discard is another woman's treasure. Collectibles, jewelry, antiques etc. Let's have fun with this while raising money for our education and community projects.

At our last meeting in June, before our Summer break we will have a Bonnet parade and contest. So be thinking about decorating a hat with a theme, patriotic, unusual, funny, characters, or era like the Roaring Twenties.

There will be prizes and fun. We are looking forward to a great time.

CAMPAIGN AND VOTER REGISTRATION INFORMATION

Greeting TARWF Members! We have some good news and some not so good information to report. Please read our following report.

Recall Newsom Petition

WOW! As of March 10, 2021, the Recall Campaign against King Newsom has now gathered more than 2,060,000 signatures. 1,497,000 valid signatures are needed to force a special recall election. An outside third party vendor has pre-verified 1,871,573 signatures. AWESOME! These pre-verified signatures will be turned in to 58 county registrar of voter offices. These signatures will then be turned over to CA Secretary of State Shirley Weber. In January, 2021, Shirley Weber was appointed SOS with Alex Padilla becoming a CA state senator replacing Kamala Harris. In April these signatures should be verified by the SOS according to California Election Code for a special recall election.

Orrin Heatlie, Chairman of The California Patriot Coalition, and Randy Economy, Senior Advisor, have both spoken out on this accomplishment. This movement has been bipartisan GRASS ROOTS powered with 31% of signees being democrat and independent and 69% being republican and libertarian. Democracy has been in full play in California with empowerment to the people of California and the whole Nation. The whole Nation is watching California which we are seeing talked about on many talk shows. YEA!

Remember this is only the first step in our endeavour. The Recall has to make it on our state ballot here in California hopefully in the Fall. Newsom is already in campaign mode calling this a "partisan political power grab". This will be their new talking point!!! We will have to keep fighting to get a Republican Governor elected in California. It happened in 2003 (Gov. Gray Davis)! AND IT CAN HAPPEN AGAIN!!!

THANK YOU to all our Adorable Volunteers who signed and collected signatures for this Recall Petition. MUCH APPRECIATED!

Info for upcoming June luncheon meeting

Linda Barcelona has arranged for Kelly Ernby, OCGOP Precinct Operations & Voter Registration Chair, to present a grassroots plan for volunteers from our club to connect with our OC neighborhood precincts. We (Kristin & Carlene) have both had a chance to talk with Kelly Ernby and are anxious to hear her plans for important outreach precinct work. She is an amazing, dynamic person with great ideas. It will be very beneficial to us as a club to have a OCGOP point person coordinating ideas and plans throughout the county. YEA! This is an exciting teaser to have you attend the June luncheon. Thank you, Linda, for arranging this presentation and an opportunity to meet Kelly Ernby!

Disappointing Election News

The Board of Supervisors Special Election to fill Michelle Steel's vacancy was held on March 9, 2021.

The results are as follows: Katrina Foley (D) 43.72%; John Moorlach (R) 31.44%; Kevin Muldoon

(R) 11.48%; Michael Vo (R) 9.03%; and Janet Rappaport (D) 4.34%. Please note:If you tally all the Republican votes, the total would be 51.95%. John Moorlach was endorsed by the OCGOP.

Point to Ponder: "Atheism is the root problem in our society, not racism."

GO FORTH AND BE BOLD!!!

REPUBLICANS HELP ELECT A DEMOCRAT

Orange County Board of Supervisors Seat Goes to Katrina Foley

Republicans can't blame election fraud on this loss. THREE Republicans running against ONE major Democrat candidate for District 2 of the Orange County Board of Supervisors was pure insanity. The egos of Newport Beach Councilman Kevin Muldoon and Fountain Valley Mayor

Michael Vo were obviously more important than keeping the seat Republican. Although there's no guarantee that every vote for Muldoon and Vo would have gone to Moorlach, the overwhelmingly odds are that Republican voters would have voted for the lone Republican candidate.

In an interview with The Epoch Times, Moorlach said, "I don't know if I was surprised (by the results). I think more than anything I was disappointed in what two Republican turncoats could do to the whole equation. If those two were not in the race, I would have won. So it's unfortunate, and, you know, you can't help people that are impetuous."

Robin's letter to the editor on this issue appeared in the Sunday, March 14 "OC Register." If you want to share your thoughts with Muldoon and Vo:

God has called home another one of his precious children. Donald Brockschmidt, husband of Mary Brockschmidt, long time members of St Cecelia's Church and community, died on February 24th at his home in Tustin. The family is taking it very hard as it came as a complete surprise.

Please keep them all in your prayers today. Eternal rest grant unto him, O Lord, and let perpetual light shine upon him. May his soul and the soul of all the faithful departed, through God's mercy, rest in peace.

Catholic Mass for Don Brockschmidt will be at St. Cecelia's Church on Saturday, April 10th at 10:00am. May God Bless and protect Mary and her family. ☐

Did The Shutdowns Save Lives? A Year Later, Statistical Analysis Suggests Not

There is no evidence shutdowns did anything but deepen the economic suffering, increase suicides, and prevent lifesaving medical tests and treatments.

By Chuck DeVore
MARCH 12, 2021

The government response to COVID-19 has mostly been a failure. Theatric, yes—see New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo’s Emmy. Symbolic, yes. But there is no evidence shutdowns did anything but deepen the economic suffering, increase suicides, and prevent lifesaving medical tests and treatments.

With the exception of former President Trump’s effort to speed research, approval, and rollout of a COVID vaccine through Operation Warp Speed, and efforts to discourage the spread of the virus through border restrictions (now abandoned by President Biden), what policies can objectively be shown to have worked?

Last May, in The Federalist I examined state-level unemployment through April, using job losses as a proxy for the severity of government-imposed shutdowns, finding these even then suggested lockdowns had no effect on the course of “a virus released by what appears to be sloppy lab procedures in Wuhan, China.” I also found a statistical connection between a state’s reliance on mass transit and a higher fatality rate.

One year on, has anything changed? What does the data say? Does anything suggest that the shutdowns were worth it?

Let’s Take a Look at the Data:

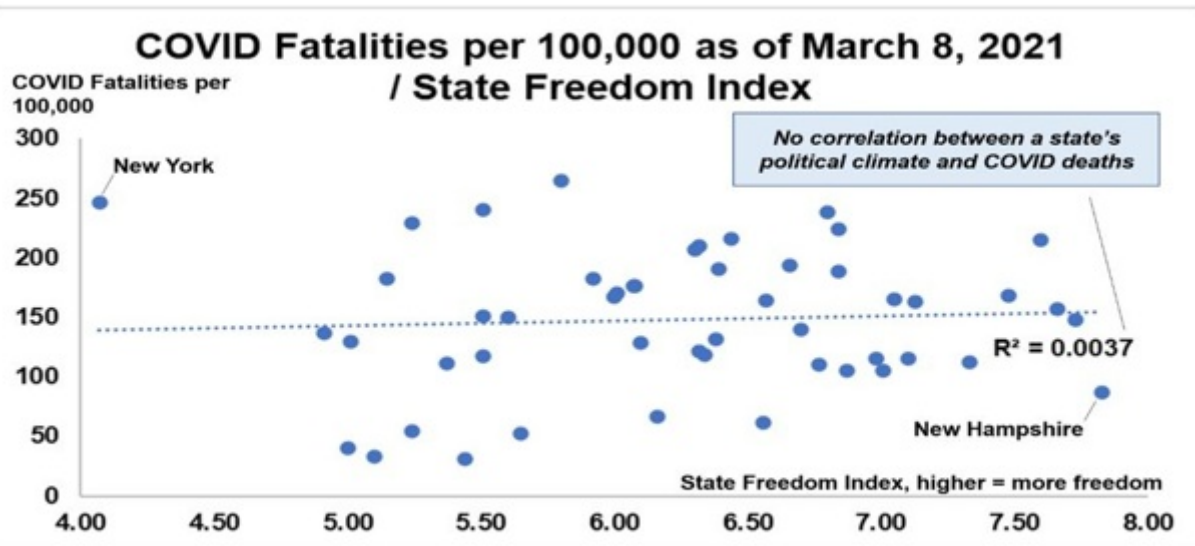

The change in private employment among the states from January 2020 to December 2020, the latest month for which data is available, can be used as a proxy for the severity of government edicts to slow the spread of the virus. It represents closed restaurants and family-owned businesses, destroyed lives and life’s savings.

In theory, this pain should have been rewarded with a lower COVID fatality rate. That’s what we were told as we obediently stayed at home. Yet the data shows no benefit earned by the states that inflicted the largest destruction on their job base, judging by the fatality rates from COVID. Graphically, it looks like this:

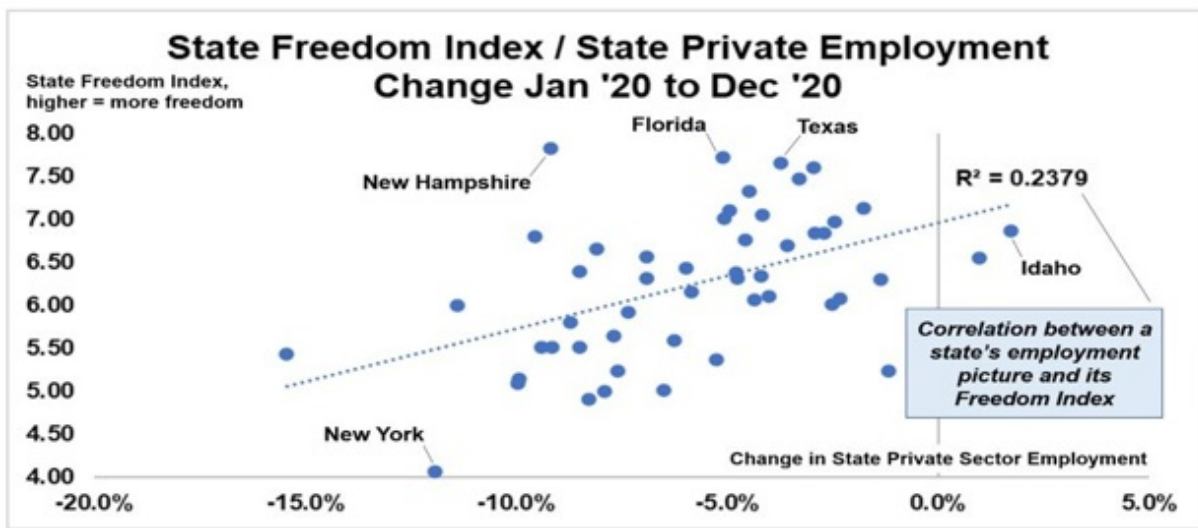

Graphic by Chuck DeVore of the Texas Public Policy Foundation, COVID data from the New York Times, Private Employment data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics

Another constant feature of the corporate media's COVID-19 coverage was the claim red states were killing their people. Again, the data after a year shows no correlation between a state's level of freedom, as measured by the Fraser Institute in their annual Economic Freedom of North America survey, and COVID fatalities.

Graphic by Chuck DeVore of the Texas Public Policy Foundation, COVID data from the New York Times, Freedom Index from the Fraser Institute

However, there is a modest correlation between economic freedom and the strength of the job market over the past year, although it is important to note that the correlation between freedom on the state level and job creation has been a long-term trend, one that COVID-19 did not change.

Graphic by Chuck DeVore of the Texas Public Policy Foundation, Freedom Index from the Fraser Institute, Private Employment data from the Bureau of Labor Statistics

Digging deeper into the data, a regression analysis seeking correlations to per capita COVID-19 fatalities at the state level to five variables—use of mass transit, change in private-sector employment, economic freedom, share of the population 65 and older, and the percentage of adults with obesity in 2020—finds only a weak connection (adjusted R square of 0.19). Only two variables are significant in this correlation: the share of mass transit use (P-value of 0.001) and prevalence of obesity (P-value of 0.009).

This would suggest that the virus takes its course regardless of the severity of shutdowns. That's not to say that any government action is futile. For instance, the Trump administration's effort to speed development of an effective vaccine appears likely to save a significant number of people—assuming the vaccines retain their effectiveness as the virus mutates.

More Restrictive States Didn't See Fewer Deaths.

If the preceding macroeconomic analysis isn't convincing, there are also peer-reviewed studies that find the same. For instance, Ioannidis, Bhattacharya, et al. publishing in the European Journal of Clinical Investigation, concluded, “we do not find significant benefits on case growth of more restrictive NPIs (nonpharmaceutical interventions)” such as mandatory stay-at-home orders and business closures.

Thus, with no statistically consistent difference in virus fatality outcomes between Gov. Andrew Cuomo of New York's 11.9 percent drop in private-sector jobs, Gov. Gavin Newsom of California's 8.3 percent loss of jobs, Gov. Greg Abbott's Texas decline of 3.7 percent, and Gov. Ron DeSantis's Florida drop of 5.1 percent, it makes sense to encourage opening the economy while protecting the most vulnerable populations.

Lastly, as a crowning example of our politicians' proclivity to reward failure, it is illuminating to see that more than 90 percent of the \$1.9 trillion Biden stimulus is not directly related to COVID-19. Some $350 billion of the behemoth spending bill bails out the same state and local governments that inflicted the greatest damage on their own economies, realizing no measurable gain in public health.

As the Foundation for Economic Education notes, “Biden's bill spends more than twice as much lining the pockets of bankrupt blue states than it does actually addressing public health.” But then, spending, not public health, is the purpose of the bill.

Chuck DeVore is vice president of national initiatives at the Texas Public Policy Foundation and served in the California State Assembly from 2004 to 2010.

"... My days on earth are numbered; But before I fade away, there is something IMPORTANT I need to say. It may not be important to anyone else; but it's important to ME. Win, lose or fraud...President Trump, I just want to say THANK YOU for the last four years.

Thank you for making it COOL TO BE AN AMERICAN again. Thank you for SHOWING US that we DON'T NEED to be under China's thumb anymore economically, or any other way. Thank you for one of the STRONGEST economies we've EVER experienced in MY lifetime.

Thank you for ALL you have done for the minority communities, and the outstanding DECREASE in the unemployment rate you had. Thank you for making it feel good to LOVE our country and to be a PROUD patriot again.

Thank you for supporting our Nation's FLAG and the men and women who FOUGHT for the freedom that stands behind that flag. Thank you for SUPPORTING our nation's law enforcement organizations, and UNDERSTANDING how difficult their job really is.

Thank you for QUELLING THE FLOOD of illegal immigration, and bringing to justice the thousands of criminals that flood brought us.

Thank you for GIVING corporations a REASON to come back to America to make OUR OWN products and PUT Americans BACK TO WORK.

Thank you for BRINGING OUR TROOPS HOME from the NEVER-ending deployments that presented us with little more than body bags; and for your HONORABLE COMMITMENT to strengthen our military.

Thank you for operation warp speed and KEEPING YOUR PROMISE to bringing the Covid 19 vaccine to us in LESS than a year.

Thank you for your never-ending attempts at bringing PEACE to the Middle East and your SUPPORT for Israel.

Thank you for your TAX RELIEF, and thank you for the Energy INDEPENDENCE you wanted to give us.

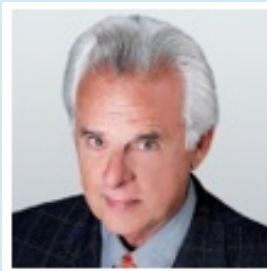

Most of all though...THANK YOU for taking a damn ROTTEN job that you NEVER had to take!!

Thank you for CARING enough for this country to want to TRY and make a difference. Thank you for SHOWING America HOW LITTLE Career Politicians ACTUALLY work for their huge pay checks, perks we don't get and FOR their constituents who trusted them blindly; and for showing us how much ALL THOSE politicians DESPISE you for SHOWING America how EASY IT IS to build a great nation, rather than RAPE her to line their OWN pockets and stock portfolios.

Thank you for ALLOWING us to experience a President that WASN'T a lifelong politician, but a LIFELONG AMERICAN.

THANK YOU MR PRESIDENT... YOU DID YOUR BEST..."

The French Revolution Is Attacking the American Revolution

March 7, 2021 Updated: March 9, 2021

Commentary

"That's insane!" These days, how often do we say those words? The litany could go on and on.

Dr. Seuss is suddenly persona non grata, with six of his books removed from publication because they are "racist" and "hateful." That's insane!

Harry Potter author J.K. Rowling has become a widely reviled personality because she claims that boys are born male, and girls, female? That's insane!

Statues of Abraham Lincoln are being torn down and schools named after the Great Emancipator renamed in the cause of fighting racism. That's insane!

Woke educators decry mathematics education focused on getting "the right answer" as an expression of white privilege and patriarchy. Suddenly, math is about social justice. That's insane!

No. Actually, it's not. "Canceling," as it is called, is a coldly calculated strategy implemented with malice aforethought. The goal isn't to persuade. Social excommunication, media deplatforming, and the trashing of venerable traditions don't seek to reform institutions or promote societal improvement. Rather, the point is to destroy every traditional religious, social, and political institution judged guilty of constructing Western civilization, toward the end of rebuilding society in the image of Woke.

Let me put it more simply: The French Revolution is attacking the American Revolution.

The French Revolution? Am I nuts?

I don't think so. Sure, circumstances are different. Antifa and their allied corporate wokesters aren't attacking a king living in splendor as the common people starve. And to be sure, no guillotines have been installed in public squares to chop off heads. Well, at least not literally.

But I believe we are in the midst of a social upheaval every bit as radical and potentially destructive as the one that tore France apart in the late 18th century, a revolution that aims at demolishing traditional Americanism as thoroughly as the original version did the French monarchy.

The French Revolution isn't just a historical event. It can also be thought of as a metaphor that describes a particularly destructive utopian zealotry. Similarly, the American Revolution can refer to more than the events culminating in the founding of the United States, but also, as the embodiment of a value system of ordered liberty and individual freedom. The values of the two upheavals—both historically and as metaphors—couldn't be more antithetical.

Realizing that the neo-French and American Revolutions aren't all one thing but in the real world can share attributes, we can make the following general observations:

The French Revolution is utopian and believes in the perfectibility of society that requires a strong centralized power structure. The American Revolution is, paradoxically, conservative. Its locus of power is the free individual.

The French Revolution focuses on self-indulgence; the American, on self-restraint.

The French Revolution is authoritarian. It deploys institutional power to coerce adherence to the revolution's values. In today's parlance, that goal is equity, meaning equality of outcomes. The American Revolution stands for equality of opportunity, by creating a system in which people are enabled to go as far as their talent and character allow without regard to the color of their skin, their sex, or any other categorization.

The French Revolution tolerates only approved speech. It dictates acceptable lexicon. The American Revolution understands that reasonable people may differ. The answer to bad speech isn't to punish but refute it with better speech.

The French Revolution detests traditional religion—particularly orthodox Christianity—and seeks to establish a mandatory secularity in the public sphere to which all must give obeisance. (For example, the Equality Act would impose transgendered ideology throughout society, including forcing women's sports to let biological males compete.) The American Revolution upholds the free exercise of religion—that is, the right to live according to the precepts of one's faith—as a fundamental human right. (Thus, religious pacifists may legally escape conscription into the military, even in times of war.)

The French Revolution feels—that is, its arguments are based mostly in hyperemotionalism. Its great potent tools are moral panic and the aroused mob sweeping all before it. No disagreement allowed. The American Revolution thinks. Its most effective strategy is free and open discourse as applied to established moral and legal principles, from which people are allowed to dissent.

The French Revolution believes in “positive rights” secured by an all-powerful government—even if that means citizens are coerced into their provision. The American Revolution perceives rights as emanating from God or as integral to human nature. Thus, government isn't established to guarantee happiness but to maintain an open and free society for its pursuit.

The Bible says we will be known by our fruits. I think that is also true of philosophical systems. The historic fruits of the French Revolution have been despotism, death, and destruction—in the Reign of Terror in France, the Bolshevik Revolution in Russia, and the catastrophic Cultural Revolution of China, all of which were pursued with French Revolutionary values and zealotry.

The fruits of the American Revolution have been rising levels of personal freedom in the West unheard of in human history and the creation of the most prosperous society on earth. It is why downtrodden people from the world risk life and limb to get to the United States. They believe in the American Dream.

It will take time for the passions fueling our American French Revolution to bank. But if we stay resolute and defiant, if we resist succumbing to the Jacobins' bullying, that day will come. As the old saying goes, the Revolution always eats its own.

But I fear our situation is going to get worse before it gets better. Today, Dr. Seuss was canceled. Tomorrow, it could be Mr. Rogers—he was, after all, a white, male, Christian pastor who was depicted as living in a privileged suburban neighborhood and spoke to his audience of children in the oppressive binary terms, “boys and girls.” Off with his head!

15 Insane Things In Democrats' H.R. 1 Bill To Corrupt Elections Forever

House Democrats passed an 800-page bill that would mandate insecure voting processes and subject voting tallies to partisan manipulation. It's a slap in the face to the half of Americans, including many Democrats, who believe the 2020 election was riddled with fraud and errors, largely due to the rapid expansion of mail-in balloting and other suspensions of state election laws.

Democrats have made the bill their top priority this Congress to permanently cement their current unified control of the federal government.

The bill “would (among other things) implement nationwide the worst changes in election rules that occurred during the 2020 election; go even further in eroding and eliminating basic security protocols that states have in place; and interfere with the ability of states and their citizens to determine the qualifications and eligibility of voters, ensure the accuracy of voter registration rolls, secure the fairness and integrity of elections, and participate and speak freely in the political process,” says a Heritage Foundation analysis.

H.R. 1 broadcasts Democrats’ goals for unending electoral dominance through openly rigged voting processes. It would engineer an unconstitutional federal takeover of state elections for national office. No surprise, then, that Joe Biden says he will sign this legislation if it reaches his desk.

Here are just some of the unconstitutional, absurd, nakedly partisan, and crime-assisting provisions in this bill that 220 House Democrats voted for and every House Republican voted against.

1. Openly Breaks the Constitution

As the attorneys general note, “Under both the Elections Clause of Article I of the Constitution and the Electors Clause of Article II, States have principal—and with presidential elections, exclusive—responsibility to safeguard the manner of holding elections.” This bill would instead unconstitutionally give Congress primacy over state elections, in numerous ways.

Mandating mail-in voting, requiring states to accept late ballots, overriding state voter ID laws, and mandating that states conduct redistricting through unelected commissions all violate states’ constitutional authority in conducting elections.

2. Set Up Star Chambers to Intimidate Judges

The bill would establish a “Commission to Protect Democratic Institutions” that would have the power to force judges to testify before a panel of unelected federal bureaucrats. According to the bill on page 389, the commission, or any member or subcommittee of the commission, may “hold hearings and sit and act at such times and places, take such testimony, receive such evidence, and administer such oaths as the Commission considers advisable.”

This commission, the Heritage analysis finds, “would be given the authority to compel judges to testify and justify their legal decisions, threatening their independent judgment and subjecting them to political pressure and harassment.”

3. Mandate Mail-in Ballots, 10-Day Delay in Results

The bill mandates universal mail-in balloting and requires states to wait ten days after election day for any outstanding ballots to arrive. The Heritage report notes that “no-fault absentee ballots” “are the tool of choice for vote thieves.”

Besides a recipe for chaos and partisan election manipulation, this is unconstitutional. The attorneys general note that “The exclusivity of state power to ‘define the method’ of choosing presidential electors means that Congress may not force states to permit presidential voting by mail or curbside voting.”

4. Eliminate Voter ID Election Security

“Perhaps most egregious is the Act’s limitations on voter ID laws,” write the attorneys general. “Fairly considered, requiring government-issued photo identification at the polls represents nothing more than a best practice for election administration.”

“Voter ID laws remain popular, with thirty-five states requiring some form of documentary personal identification at the polls. Yet the Act would dismantle meaningful voter ID laws by allowing a statement, as a substitute for prior-issued, document-backed identification, to ‘attest’ to the individual’s identity and that the individual is eligible to vote in the election.’ This does little to ensure that voters are who they say they are

5. Register Millions Of Criminally Present Foreign Citizens to Vote

By forcing states to automatically and duplicatively register all people to vote through government outposts such as motor vehicles, state universities, and welfare agencies, H.R. 1 would register millions of illegal migrants to vote in the United States. This bill would essentially create de facto voting rights for the tens of millions of non-citizens inside the United States. Under this bill, states must automatically register every adult and are legally prohibited from inspecting or checking whether anyone who votes is legally eligible to do so.

The bill also bans courts from enforcing any legal penalties on any foreign citizens who illegally register to vote in the United States (Section 1015). This bill’s provisions would thus assist anyone inside the United States to vote in its elections, even if they are not citizens and have demonstrated contempt for our nation by breaking our laws to take advantage of our freedoms (for as long as they last).

6. Explode Opportunities for Election Cheating

“Adding to the threat of increased voter fraud, the Act would mandate nationwide automatic voter registration and Election Day voter registration,” write the attorneys general. “Such systems would provide too many opportunities for non-citizens and others ineligible to vote to register and cast fraudulent ballots before officials can take preventive action.”

Allowing people to register the same day they vote in 2020 contributed to suspiciously high — near or even above 100 percent — percentages of registered voters reportedly casting ballots in many precincts, often in key locations.

The bill would also “Prevent election officials from checking the eligibility and qualifications of voters and removing ineligible voters,” notes the Heritage analysis. It would require every ballot to be considered legitimate from the get-go, effectively banning provisional ballots.

Those are currently used, for example, when a voter shows up at the polls and records say he already voted or he is registered using incorrect information such as the wrong address. Under this bill, he could still vote without the error being cleared up, and with a regular, not provisional, ballot.

The bill would also eliminate any requirements that a witness sign an absentee ballot, and send absentee ballots for life to everyone who has ever used one. It would also effectively ban matching signatures on absentee ballots to government records of the voter’s signature, such as from a driver’s license record (Section 307).

Therefore, the bill eliminates almost every safeguard meant to protect against fraud and give voters confidence in election results.

7. Prevent Cleaning Up Voter Rolls

If the bill passes into law, “States could not use a combination of voter inactivity and unresponsiveness to maintain voter lists but may instead remove illegitimate voter registrations only where officials obtain some other unspecified ‘objective and reliable evidence that the registrant is ineligible to vote,’” write the 20 state attorneys general. “This attack on reliable methods that states have been using to maintain voters lists without specifying any reasonable permissible alternatives belies any actual interest in preventing voter fraud. The objective, rather, seems to be to prevent meaningful voter list maintenance altogether.”

Moreover, the bill threatens anyone, such as a local election official or poll watcher, who might undertake any questioning of any voter or attempts to establish his or her eligibility to vote. Section 1071 says: “It shall be unlawful for any person, whether acting under color of law or otherwise, to corruptly hinder, interfere with, or prevent another person from registering to vote or to corruptly hinder, interfere with, or prevent another person from aiding another person in registering to vote.” The maximum penalty for this would be up to five years in prison.

8. Unleash Mobs on Political Donors

If passed, the bill would require that political speakers and nonprofit organizations publish the identities of their donors. This would create blacklists for leftist activists to target to prevent their political opponents from the opportunity to speak in public, note the attorneys general.

In addition, the bill would require massive compliance costs for “candidates, citizens, civic groups, unions, corporations, and nonprofit organizations,” says the Heritage Foundation. “Many of these provisions violate the First Amendment, protect incumbents, and reduce the accountability of politicians to the public; its onerous disclosure requirements for nonprofit organizations would subject their members and donors to intimidation and harassment.”

Even the leftist American Civil Liberties Union expressed concern about these provisions in a letter to top House Democrats. These sections of H.R. 1 “could harm political advocacy and expose non-profit donors to harassment and threats of violence should their support for organizations be subject to forced disclosure,” the ACLU wrote.

9. Gerrymander Districts to Favor Democrats

The bill would establish a commission of unelected national bureaucrats to decide where the political boundaries for various districts will be, rather than state elected officials.

With respect to political redistricting, no ideal, perfectly balanced congressional boundaries exist, so we should let the people decide, through their elected officials, where to place them.”

10. Make Vote Hacking Easier

the bill's mass forced voter registration of every person with a record in various state databases comprises "a recipe for massive voter registration fraud by hackers and cyber criminals," the Heritage analysis finds. Government databases are notorious for breaches of private information by cybercriminals and foreign countries. This would also create numerous duplicate voter registrations that the bill bans state and local officials from cleaning up, potentially assisting individuals in voting multiple times.

11. Let Former Felons Vote Before They've Completed Their Sentences

The Heritage analysis says this bill would also "Require states to restore the ability of felons to vote the moment they are out of prison regardless of uncompleted parole, probation, or restitution requirements. Section 2 of the Fourteenth Amendment gives states the constitutional authority to decide when felons who committed crimes against their fellow citizens may vote again. Congress cannot override a constitutional amendment with a statute."

12. Help 16- and 17-Year-Olds Vote Illegally

H.R. 1 "would also require states to allow 16-year-olds and 17-year-olds to register; when combined with a ban on voter ID and restrictions on the ability to challenge the eligibility of a voter, this would effectively ensure that underage individuals could vote with impunity," says the Heritage analysis.

In Section 1091, the bill establishes a federal pilot program in public schools to register 12th graders to vote. This is a blatant attempt to push elections Democrat, as polls have shown for decades the younger people are, the more likely they are to vote Democrat.

13. Bans Keeping the Records Necessary for an Election Audit or Recount

In Section 1502, the bill would ban state and local officials from preserving the record of paper ballots that make trustworthy post-election recounts and audits possible. It states: "The voting system shall not preserve the voter-verified paper ballots in any manner that makes it possible, at any time after the ballot has been cast, to associate a voter with the record of the voter's vote without the voter's consent."

14. Mandates Ballot Drop Boxes

In Section 1907, H.R. 1 would mandate that, beginning 45 days before an election, "In each county in the State, each State shall provide in-person, secured, and clearly labeled drop boxes at which individuals may, at any time during the period described in subsection (b), drop off voted absentee ballots in an election for Federal office." This allows for the anonymous submission of absentee ballots outside of mail.

This bill would also legalize "ballot harvesting," or authorizing one individual to collect such ballots and turn them in by the barrel.

15. Giving U.S. Territories Extra Democrat Seats in Congress and the Electoral College

H.R. 1 would form a commission to consider granting five U.S. territories voting rights, but not statehood. This is an open attempt to rig Congress and the presidency in favor of Democrats.

If these territories are granted House, Senate, and Electoral College seats, they could add as many as 10 senators and 18 new Electoral College votes, all almost assuredly filled with Democrats. Notice that at the current construction of the Senate, when a 60-vote majority is needed to pass most items of importance, this plan would give Democrats that insurmountable 60-vote majority to do whatever they want with no obstacles.

There's a lot more in this bill, such as that its only limits on voting appear to be regarding absentee ballots for U.S. soldiers. This massive list is not a comprehensive examination.

It should suffice, however, to reveal how insane today's Democrat Party is that every single House Democrat, save one, voted for this bill. This is a voting bill that only totalitarians seeking a uniparty nation could love.
