Migrant Families
Change Begins
Strong Beginnings

FOREWORD

SAFE SPACES, STRONG FUTURES

Every year, thousands of families leave their homes across India with little more than hope and the determination to build a better future. They come to Delhi in search of work, education and opportunities that were once beyond their reach.

These families help build and sustain our city. They construct homes, keep neighbourhoods running, work in markets, factories and offices, and contribute to Delhi's growth every day. Yet many continue to live in underserved settlements where access to safe sanitation, healthcare, education and livelihoods remains limited—especially for women and children.

For nearly two decades, PVR NEST has worked alongside communities and government institutions to change this reality. What began as an effort to improve sanitation has evolved into a movement for dignity and inclusion. Today, our Pink Centres and Garima Grihs are more than public facilities. They are safe community spaces where women gain skills, children receive care, young people access opportunities, and families begin to imagine a better future.

This year, our impact has grown through stronger government partnerships and expanded programmes in women's leadership, digital inclusion, healthcare, nutrition, skilling and livelihoods. Every initiative is guided by one simple belief: safe spaces create stronger futures.
This report tells the story of one such journey.

It is the story of Kusum, and of thousands of migrant women whose resilience inspires everything we do. As you turn these pages, I hope you will see not only the work of PVR NEST, but also the strength of communities that remind us lasting change begins with dignity, trust and opportunity.

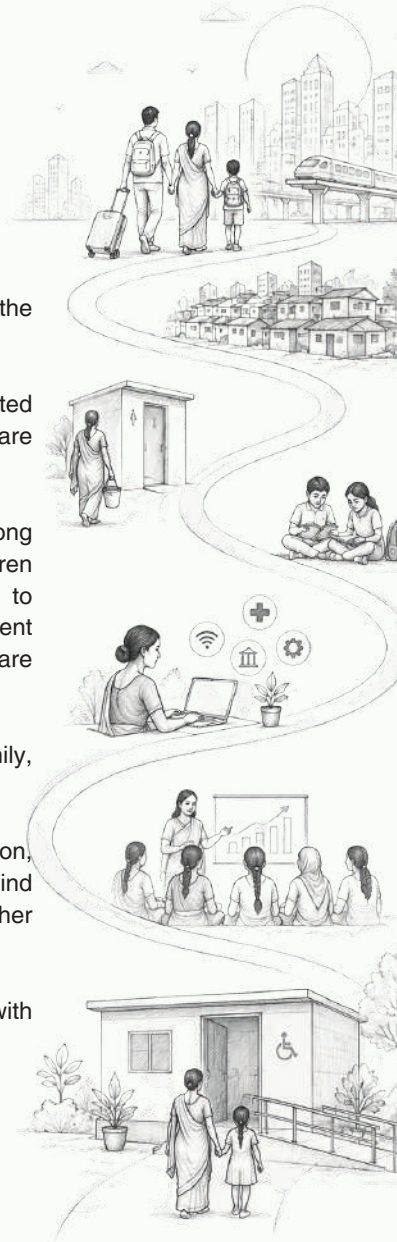
WHEN A CITY BECOMES HOME



For many migrant families, finding work is only the first step. Finding safety is often much harder.

Families frequently settle in densely populated urban communities where basic services are stretched.

Safe sanitation is limited. Women often travel long distances to access clean public toilets. Children have few safe places to study or play. Access to digital services, healthcare and government schemes can feel overwhelming for families who are still finding their place in a new city.

These challenges affect every member of the family, but they often fall most heavily on women.

When a woman cannot safely access sanitation, travel independently, learn new skills or find employment, the opportunities available to her children are also affected.

Creating stronger communities therefore begins with creating safer spaces.

- Safe spaces where women feel respected.
- Safe spaces where girls feel confident.
- Safe spaces where communities can learn, connect and grow together.

This belief became the foundation of
PVR NEST's Safety and Protection Programme

ONE STORY
THOUSANDS OF JOURNEYS

Some stories begin in the villages of Uttar Pradesh. Others in Bihar, Maharashtra, Rajasthan or countless other towns and communities across India. While every journey is different, many are shaped by the same dream—to build a safer, more secure future for their families.

Rather than telling the stories of thousands, let us begin with one..

MEET KUSUM

Her journey is deeply personal, yet it reflects the experiences of countless women who leave everything familiar behind in search of opportunity.

Kusum's story began hundreds of kilometres away from Delhi

Like many migrant women, she arrived in the city carrying hopes for a better life. She wanted to contribute to her family, become financially independent and create opportunities that had once seemed beyond reach.

But the reality of starting over was not easy.

She spent most of her time at home. Travelling alone felt intimidating. She lacked confidence and had few opportunities to learn new skills or earn an income. Like many women living in migrant communities, her world gradually became smaller, limited by circumstance rather than potential.

Everything began to change when she heard about a stitching course at Garima Grih. Unsure of herself but willing to try, Kusum enrolled. The classroom offered much more than vocational training. It gave her a safe space to learn, ask questions, make friends and believe in herself. Surrounded by other women with similar aspirations, she slowly discovered confidence she never knew she had.

As her skills grew, so did her ambitions. She completed her training, became a trainer herself and eventually established a home-based stitching enterprise. Today, Kusum earns nearly Rs. 30,000 every month, supports her family with confidence and mentors other women who are just beginning their own journeys.

KUSUM'S STORY IS INSPIRING

BUT IT IS NOT UNIQUE

Across the communities where PVR NEST works, thousands of women are taking similar first steps, from uncertainty to confidence, from learning to earning, and from simply surviving to building stronger futures for themselves and their families.

As you turn the pages of this report, Kusum's journey will guide you through the lives of many others, reminding us that when one woman is empowered, an entire community begins to move forward.

WHERE CHANGE BEGINS

Kusum's story reminds us that transformation rarely begins with something extraordinary. Sometimes, it begins with something as simple as a place where a woman feels safe.

- A place where she is welcomed without judgement.
- A place where she can use a clean toilet with dignity.
- A place where she can ask questions, learn a new skill, access government services, attend a health session or simply spend time with other women who understand her journey.

PVR NEST believes that lasting change begins by changing the spaces people use every day. For nearly two decades, we have worked alongside government institutions, community leaders and partners to transform public infrastructure into welcoming, inclusive community hubs where women, children and families can access safety, learning and livelihoods under one roof.

Today, these spaces are much more than buildings. They are places where confidence is built. Where leadership emerges. Where communities begin to shape their own future

For thousands of migrant families living in Delhi's urban settlements, these spaces are often missing

- Without safe public infrastructure, opportunities become harder to reach.
- Girls may miss school because they lack access to safe sanitation.
- Women postpone healthcare because services feel inaccessible.
- Many remain outside the workforce because there are few places to learn new skills or build confidence.

ABOUT PVR NEST

Reimagining Public Spaces & Strengthening Communities

Established in 2006, PVR NEST is the CSR arm of PVR INOX Limited and one of India's earliest corporate-led social initiatives, conceived well before CSR became a statutory requirement under the Companies Act. For nearly two decades, PVR NEST has worked with one belief at its heart, that public spaces have the power to shape lives.

Across rapidly growing cities, migrant families often face interconnected challenges. Safe sanitation, health, education, digital access and livelihood opportunities are rarely available in one place. Recognising these gaps, PVR NEST adopted a unique approach: rather than creating new infrastructure, it partners with government institutions to transform existing public facilities into vibrant community spaces that respond to the everyday needs of women, children and vulnerable families.

Today, PVR NEST operates across 35+ urban communities through a network of 11 government-partnered centres, including Pink Centres and Garima Grihs, collectively welcoming more than 10 lakh women, girls, children and elderly citizens every year. What were once underutilised public facilities have become trusted neighbourhood spaces where communities access sanitation, skilling, health services, digital inclusion, leadership opportunities and livelihoods.

Every initiative is designed around one principle: that when communities are given safe, inclusive spaces to learn, connect and grow, they become active partners in creating lasting change.

OUR VISION

To create inclusive public spaces where every woman, child and family can live with dignity, access opportunities and realise their full potential.

OUR MISSION

To strengthen communities by transforming public infrastructure into sustainable centres of safety, learning, health, livelihoods and community leadership through meaningful public–private partnerships.

GOVERNMENT PARTNERSHIP

Strengthening Public Infrastructure, Together

A city is built not just with roads and buildings, but with spaces that people can use, trust and feel welcome in. Public infrastructure is where everyday life meets the support systems of a city, and government plays an important role in making these spaces work better for the communities they serve.

The Municipal Corporation of Delhi (MCD) is an important part of this journey. With its wide network of public infrastructure across Delhi, MCD has the reach and presence to take meaningful initiatives closer to people and communities.

For PVR NEST, MCD has been a long-term partner. The partnership brings together MCD's public spaces and city-wide reach with PVR NEST's resources, programme expertise and understanding of communities.

Together, we have looked at existing spaces differently, not as spaces that need to be replaced, but as spaces that can do more.

Through this partnership, PVR NEST brings in resources, programming and community engagement to help repurpose these facilities. A sanitation space continues to remain a sanitation space, while also becoming a place where women can pause, children can learn and families can find support.

These centres bring sanitation, health awareness, skilling, digital inclusion and community support closer to neighbourhoods, making existing public infrastructure more useful and responsive.

It is a simple idea: when public spaces are strengthened through the right partnerships, they can become more than infrastructure, they can become part of the social fabric of a neighbourhood.

For government, such partnerships help extend the value of public infrastructure and bring services closer to the people who need them. For communities, they create spaces that feel safer, more welcoming and more connected to everyday needs.

The MCD–PVR NEST partnership is a shared effort to make the most of what already exists, to build on public infrastructure, bring communities closer to it, and create lasting value from spaces that are already a part of the city.

BUILDING CHANGE TOGETHER

Governance that enables lasting impact

Creating meaningful social change requires more than good intentions. It requires strong governance, responsible partnerships and long-term commitment.

PVR NEST's work is guided by the Board of Trustees & PVR INOX Limited and its CSR Committee, ensuring that every programme is aligned with the Companies Act, 2013, national development priorities and the organisation's long-term vision for inclusive urban development.

Our projects are selected through community consultations, field assessments and close collaboration with government agencies, ensuring that every intervention addresses real needs and delivers measurable outcomes.

OUR TRUSTEES

Mr. Ajay Bijli

Mr. Ajay Bijli brings together PVR INOX's corporate vision with a deep commitment to grassroots social impact. Mr. Bijli institutionalized PVR INOX's CSR strategy centered on DEIA (Diversity, Equity, Inclusion, and Accessibility), ensuring that urban development remains human-centric and accessible to all. Through active engagement with government and international bodies, Mr. Bijli has strengthened the private sector's role in advancing the UN SDGs 2030, with a focus on building sustainable ecosystems that support meaningful work in education, health, and mother-child welfare.

Mr. Sanjeev Kumar Bijli

Mr. Sanjeev Kumar Bijli has envisioned and led PVR NEST's Public-Private Partnership (PPP) model, transforming underutilized urban spaces into welcoming community hubs for millions of grassroots women and girls. Mr. Bijli's work is deeply rooted in women's inclusion, creating infrastructure that offers safety, dignity, and economic opportunities to over one million women and girls each year. Mr. Bijli also guides PVR NEST's green initiatives, including park adoptions and climate-resilient community programmes across 35 urban clusters.

Ms. Selena Bijli

A doctor by profession, Ms. Selena Bijli brings a compassionate approach to PVR NEST's programmes, with a deep commitment to child protection and health equity. Ms. Bijli pioneered the integration of remedial education with nutrition-focused healthcare for children from disadvantaged communities. Ms. Bijli's work focuses on strengthening access for mothers and children to essential knowledge and care through workshops on nutrition, maternal health, and hygiene, helping families build healthier futures. Ms. Bijli's contributions have been recognised nationally with honours including the Bharat Nirman Award for Excellence.

PINK CENTRES

Safe Spaces. Everyday Dignity

For most of us, using a safe, clean toilet is something we rarely think about.
For thousands of women living in Delhi's migrant settlements, it can determine whether they feel safe enough to leave home, travel to work, attend school or simply move through their city with confidence.

This is where the story of PVR NEST begins.
Working closely with the Municipal Corporation of Delhi, PVR NEST has transformed government-owned sanitation facilities into women-exclusive.

GARIMA GRIH: EMPOWERING WOMEN THROUGH SKILL DEVELOPMENT

From Safety to Opportunity

If Pink Centres are where women find safety, Garima Grih is where they begin building their future. Building on the success of the Pink Centre model, PVR NEST introduced Garima Grih to demonstrate that public infrastructure can do much more than provide essential services.

Developed under Swachh Bharat Mission (Urban) 2.0, Garima Grih transforms underutilised government-owned sanitation facilities into multi-utility women empowerment centres where safety, learning and livelihoods come together under one roof. Designed around the realities of migrant communities, Garima Grih enables women to access opportunities that are often unavailable within their neighbourhoods.

Alongside these programmes, women also access legal awareness, financial literacy, community meetings, health education and product exhibitions that strengthen both confidence and income opportunities. Today, Garima Grih stands as a powerful example of how repurposing and maintaining government-owned urban social infrastructure can create scalable, replicable and sustainable models for inclusive urban development.

Connecting Migrant Families to Opportunities

For many migrant families, the journey towards a better future does not end with finding work. It continues through countless everyday challenges, updating an Aadhaar card after moving to a new city, applying for a ration card, registering for welfare schemes, or accessing healthcare benefits. These simple but essential services often become difficult to navigate, especially for families who are new to the city and unfamiliar with government systems.

Recognising this need, PVR NEST is strengthening its Garima Grih model by introducing Common Service Centres (CSCs) at Kirti Nagar.

SERVING OVER

1 LAKH Migrant families across five urban communities

- Aadhaar Card updates
- Ration Card services
- Labour Card registration
- Voter ID support
- Awareness and enrolment for government welfare schemes
- Ayushman Bharat registration
- Access to online government documentation and citizen services

Located within spaces that communities already know and trust, these centres will bring essential government and digital services closer to migrant families, making access simpler, faster and more inclusive. More than service centres, they will become places where families receive guidance, support and the confidence to navigate life in a new city.

Over the past year, our teams have worked closely with the community to lay the foundation for this initiative. Ten community members have been identified and trained, supported through CSC certification and examination preparation, while extensive outreach has helped familiarise families with the services that will soon be available in their own neighbourhoods.

For thousands of migrant families, it means easier access to opportunities that can improve their quality of life and strengthen their connection to the city they now call home. As PVR NEST continues to build safe, inclusive community hubs, the Common Service Centre becomes another important step in ensuring that every family is not only welcomed into the city, but also connected to the opportunities it offers.

WHEN A SPACE BECOMES A STARTING POINT

Some partnerships help build programmes. Others help us understand how those programmes change lives.

Our partnership with Indian Institute of Management Indore (IIM Indore) brought an academic lens to the work of PVR NEST's Pink Centres and Garima Grih. Through the Social Impact Assessment 2025–26, the IIM Indore student team looked beyond numbers and infrastructure to understand how these spaces are influencing women's everyday lives, across sanitation, hygiene, safety, dignity, skilling, livelihoods, confidence and empowerment.

Using structured questionnaires, face-to-face conversations and field observations, the assessment covered six centres across Delhi NCR and 639 respondents, 480 community users, 145 skilling participants and 14 WASH Champions and trainers.

MENSTRUAL HEALTH MANAGEMENT

100% positive response across all MHM indicators:

SOCIAL IMPACT

PSYCHOLOGICAL IMPACT

94.2% reported changed aspirations; 100% affirmed friendly work environment

FROM SANITATION TO A SENSE OF POSSIBILITY

The Pink Centres and Garima Grih were created to make public spaces safer, cleaner and more welcoming for women and children. Over time, they have grown beyond sanitation facilities into community spaces offering menstrual hygiene support, skilling, awareness and livelihood-linked opportunities.

THE ASSESSMENT REFLECTS THIS EVOLUTION

92.7% of users expressed satisfaction with the services at the centres. 89.3% reported that safety was well taken care of, while 87.1% viewed the centres as accessible and 88.1% as inclusive.

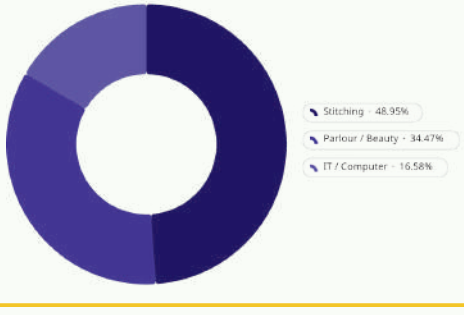
The impact is visible in everyday behaviour too. 91.0% of respondents found handwashing facilities adequate, while 89.4% reported that users flush after use. Among respondents for whom menstrual hygiene was relevant, 100% observed correct disposal of sanitary pads.

WHERE CONFIDENCE FINDS A BEGINNING

At the skilling centres, learning is becoming a pathway to possibility. Women reported stronger confidence, self-belief and aspirations, helping them move towards employability, self-employment and greater economic independence.

WASH Champions, recruited from local communities, have evolved beyond maintaining centres into workers, role models and community-level change agents. The assessment found improvements in their confidence, financial independence, household participation and social recognition.

SKILL DEVELOPMENT PROGRAMME



145 LEARNERS · 4 CENTRES

- Mean Age: 19.6 yrs; Median: 17 yrs
- 45.5% Students · 28% Homemakers
- 22.8% currently earning post-training
- Average Income: ₹291 → ₹629/mo (+116%)
- Active Earners Average: ₹2,654/mo

WHAT THE ASSESSMENT REVEALS

Across the centres, women associated the programme with greater financial stability, improved confidence and communication, greater independence in decision-making, stronger social recognition, better awareness of hygiene and menstrual health, opportunities for peer learning and mentorship, and higher aspirations for themselves and their children.

But perhaps the most meaningful finding lies beyond the numbers.

Many women described the centres in terms of belonging, safety and emotional support. What began as an effort to address a basic infrastructure need is becoming a space where women can feel safer in public, learn new skills, build confidence and take steps towards greater independence.

A SPACE THAT DOES MORE

The IIM Indore assessment reinforces what PVR NEST has seen through the journey of the Pink Centres and Garima Grih: when a public space is designed around dignity, it can create possibilities far beyond its original purpose.

- A sanitation facility becomes a place of safety.
- A learning space becomes a step towards livelihood.
- A WASH Champion becomes a role model.

And a community centre becomes a place where women can imagine—and build—a different future.

From sanitation to dignity, from access to confidence, and from infrastructure to opportunity, the impact is not only in what these spaces provide, but in what they make possible.

CHANGING HABITS
CHANGING LIVES

Across every Pink Centre and Garima Grih, awareness programmes help communities adopt healthier practices, make informed decisions and build stronger support systems for one another. Rather than conducting one-time awareness sessions, PVR NEST works through trained community leaders who understand the realities of the neighbourhoods they serve. Their lived experience helps create conversations that are open, relatable and lasting.

Throughout the year, women participated in sessions on

- PERSONAL HYGIENE
- MENSTRUAL HEALTH
- NUTRITION
- MATERNAL HEALTH
- MENTAL WELL-BEING
- FINANCIAL LITERACY
- LEGAL RIGHTS
- DIGITAL SAFETY
- SAFE SANITATION PRACTICES

These conversations often become the first step towards wider change.

- A woman who attends a hygiene session may later enrol in a livelihood programme.
- A mother who joins a nutrition workshop begins making healthier choices for her family.
- A young girl who learns about menstrual health gains the confidence to stay in school.
- As participation grows, communities begin leading these conversations themselves.
- Women trained as Behaviour Change Advocates and WASH Champions now conduct outreach across neighbourhoods, ensuring that awareness spreads from one household to another.

Growing Together

Nutritious meals served to children every year

In Delhi's migrant communities, many children grow up in environments where access to nutritious food, safe places to learn and opportunities for creative expression can be limited. Long working hours, financial uncertainty and the challenges of urban life often leave parents with little time or access to the support their children need.

At PVR NEST, we believe that strengthening a community begins with strengthening its families.
Across our Pink Centres and Garima Grihs, children find safe, welcoming spaces where they can learn, read, play and simply enjoy being children. Every week, our centres come alive with laughter as children gather for reading sessions, music and creative activities that encourage curiosity, confidence and joyful learning. Alongside these activities, our weekly Feeding Programme provides nutritious meals that support children's health and well-being.

The programme extends beyond the children themselves. Mothers participate in regular nutrition awareness sessions where they learn about balanced diets, maternal health, breastfeeding, child nutrition and the importance of healthy eating habits for every stage of life.

For every woman who finds confidence and opportunity, there is often a child whose future begins to change as well

Throughout the year, PVR NEST partnered with PVR INOX to curate screenings that celebrated inclusion, accessibility and community well-being, using cinema as a platform for meaningful social dialogue.

LOOKING AHEAD

Expanding Safe Spaces Strengthening Communities

When Kusum first walked into Garima Grih, she was searching for an opportunity.

Today, she is creating opportunities for others—earning with confidence, mentoring women and inspiring new beginnings in her community.

Her journey reminds us that meaningful change begins with one safe space, grows through learning and livelihoods, and creates a ripple effect that reaches families and entire communities.

As we look ahead, PVR NEST is expanding this journey so that many more migrant families can access the same opportunities.

GROWING TOGETHER
Deepening partnerships with government, corporates and institutions to build safer, stronger and more inclusive communities across Delhi.

Across Delhi, thousands of migrant families are beginning the same journey that Kusum once did. PVR NEST remains committed to creating more safe spaces where confidence grows, opportunities take shape, and stronger futures become possible for generations to come.

“Together, we are building a future where every woman is empowered, every family is supported, and every community thrives.”

Creating Opportunities, Together

Creating safer, stronger communities is a shared journey. Through partnerships with government, corporate, academic and community organisations, PVR NEST continues to strengthen its Safety & Protection Programmes for migrant families across Delhi.

Together, we are transforming public infrastructure into safe, inclusive community spaces where women, children and families can access dignity, protection, learning, health and livelihood opportunities—building stronger communities, one partnership at a time.

irregularities, selection and application of appropriate accounting policies, making reasonable and prudent estimates and judgments, and design, implementation and maintenance of adequate internal financial controls relevant to the preparation and presentation of the financial statements.
The Trustees are also responsible for assessing the Trust's ability to continue as a going concern, disclosing, as applicable, matters relating to going concern and using the going concern basis of accounting unless the Trustees either intend to liquidate the Trust or to cease operations, or have no realistic alternative but to do so.
The Trustees are also responsible for overseeing the Trust's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion.
Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with SAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists.
Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these financial statements.
As part of an audit in accordance with SAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
We also:

- identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements;
- obtain an understanding of internal controls relevant to the audit;
- evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used;
- evaluate the reasonableness of accounting estimates;
- conclude on the appropriateness of the Trustees' use of the going concern basis of accounting;
- evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the financial statements; and
- obtain sufficient appropriate audit evidence regarding the financial information of the Trust.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including significant deficiencies in internal control identified during our audit.
