HAVE A LAUGH . . . In All Things Give Thanks

A 4-year-old boy was asked to return thanks before Thanksgiving dinner. The family members bowed their heads in expectation. He began his prayer, thanking God for all his friends, naming them one by one. Then he thanked God for Mommy, Daddy, brother, sister, Grandma, Grandpa, and all his aunts and uncles. Then he began to thank God for the food. He gave thanks for the turkey, the dressing, the fruit salad, the cranberry sauce, the pies, the cakes, even the Cool Whip.

Then he paused, and everyone waited--and waited. After a long silence, the young fellow looked up at his mother and asked, "If I thank God for the broccoli, won't he know that I'm lying?"

Pastor's Note: Gratitude to God expressed in love... Being ready for the Lord was the theme we reflected on, in last Sunday's reading. This preparedness we were called to reflect on, was rooted in the commitment to God's ways, which was explicitly demonstrated and preached by Jesus himself. It is this commitment to God's ways that we continue to reflect on in this Sunday's reading as well. All the readings talk about the need to be alive and active in doing good works. We shall not sleep, but be awake and active in doing the works of the light, rather than works of the night, as St. Paul reminds in the second reading. The Responsorial Psalm and the First Reading talk about the need to do good works as a sign of our fear of the Lord. This fear of the Lord, is not to be understood as being scared of the Lord, but reverential love of the Lord. A faithful woman (applies in fact to every human person) reaches out to the poor and shares the goods with the needy. Her works are to be praised as works of the Lord. Gratitude to God is to be expressed in the way we share the blessings we receive from him. This willingness to be actively using one's blessings is the theme of the Gospel passage. The master of the house, going on a journey entrusts his possessions with his workers. This shows the trust and confidence he has in them and their ability. However, not every one of the workers live up to his expectations. While two of them uses the talent to bring in more, the third one does not use the talent entrusted to his care. It is the willingness of the workers to be engaged and use the talents that wins the favor of the Master when he comes back. The unwillingness to use the talent brings the ire of the master. Since this is a parable that has implications on the second coming of Jesus and the faith and trust he has in his followers, as he departs this world, it is very relevant to each of the disciples of Jesus. He has entrusted us with many talents and blessings. We need to use our lives, in performing good works, so that we will truly be commended and rewarded for it. We must live a life of fruitful love.
