She wears a red hood and a precious robe decorated with flowers, expressing her inclination towards aesthetics and luxury. On her left arm sits a falcon with a hood, as it used to be kept for hunting by noble houses. To train a falcon in such a way requires a high degree of discipline and dedication. Her right arm almost devoutly touches one of the large Pentacles near her, showing her attachment to the wealth that surrounds her everywhere. The woman's face, however, has a neutral expression. She does not rejoice in all the glorious distractions that life offers her but seems rather pensive and affectless. The garden, in which the lady moves, shows ripe grapes and lush nature around her. In her little kingdom, the woman feels independent from the outside world. Here she can enjoy all the pleasures of life when and as often as she likes. The pentacles on the vines stand for a high degree of material abundance in the lady's life so that she can devote herself entirely to her passions without ever having to worry existentially about food or money. In front of her on the path, a small snail crawls along. However, the lady completely ignores it, even though it could cause great harm to her abundant garden. The Tarot card of the Nine of Pentacles symbolizes that you should enjoy the standard of living you have achieved so far to the fullest. Material wealth or other comforts of life can quickly disappear due to various events, so it is important to enjoy them in the here and now.

Both of you are bored with your partnership, as the recurring routines provide little variety in your love life. Instead, each of you is looking for ways to get more excitement back into your daily lives, which is causing you to grow further and further apart. Sit down together and think about how you can bring more excitement back into your love life. You let your partner make important decisions that affect both of you without having an opinion of their own. In this way, your partner gains a lot of control and power over you and in the worst case can take advantage of you to fulfill his needs. Be brave to have your own opinion and make decisions for yourself, then you will be able to enjoy your freedom in a partnership. A relationship at eye level allows different opinions and builds on the fact that not one alone, but both partners actively shape their life together. For your health, the Nine of Pentacles Reversed means that you suffer from boredom and monotony. At first glance, boreout doesn't sound too bad. But the feeling of having nothing to do can quickly lead to more serious mental illnesses like depression. Dedicate yourself to things that have already brought you joy in the past and thus bring momentum back into your everyday life.
