Visiting the Biloxi Club, seeking the office of Mississippi Attorney General, was Ms. Jennifer Riley Collins. Ms. Collins is the second candidate of the four candidates invited to speak to us about their platform as Mississippi's Attorney General.

Collins, a native of Meridian, is a civil rights attorney in Jackson. She has dedicated her life to protecting Mississippians and fighting for justice. Seeking the office will continue a her lifetime of public service.

As the MS Attorney General says she will:

- Protect vulnerable populations
- Combat the opioid epidemic
- Strengthen protections for victims of crime
- Fight for working people

As a decorated Army Colonel her military career gave her the opportunity to prove herself as a leader and her legal career has put her on the front-lines in the fight for criminal justice reform, juvenile justice, economic justice and voting rights.

Jennifer Riley Collins
 Candidate for the Office of Mississippi Attorney General
