Message from the Pres

Howdy folks! Did everyone have a good and safe 4th of July? Ours was quiet. Threw some hotdogs on the grill with a side of tater salad and baked beans. Yup the old standard BBQ.

What you all think of the Torus Vase Demo? I think Craig Timmerman did an excellent job. How many of you have attempted it? I know someone has and they did an excellent job. See if you can spot their in the newsletter.

Did any of you attend the AAW Virtual Symposium? I signed up and got most of it. Thought there were some great demos and lectures. If you are interested, Woodturners Worldwide is conducting an Online Symposium in late September. More info bellow.

More about Zoom. We will send out a notice via email that will have the link and login information.

You can use your Smartphone, Tablet or Windows/MAC desktop/laptop; options to have a camera and microphone. A camera is not necessary unless you want to show something. The first time you access it will download the software.

We are still finalizing our demo time. I'll send out the link and sign in info Justas soon as I get it.

See you all at the next "Zoom" meeting. Until then be safe and keep on turning.

Vic

Demonstrator: Eric Lofstrom - Turning an Artistic Endgrain Bowl

EricLofstrom.com

Turning an Artistic Endgrain Bowl: "Namaste" Series

You will learn many of the techniques I use to create artistic, yet functional bowls using small endgrain pieces of wood. Emphasis will be on tools control, techniques specific to turning endgrain and discussion of form. We will also explore multiple elegant coloring & texturing embellishments I use to add depth & drama to a captivatingly simple form. After this demo, you'll see any small block of plain-grained wood as a potential piece of art!

Kay Liggett

In 2019, I made a totem-style sculpture with Liz Kettle (textiles) and Jennifer Hanson (ceramics). The turnings were like large beads. They were a good size to experiment with offset turning. I used the leftovers from that piece to make stacks for candles using a wooden dowel. The top bead holds a large tea light or any 2" diameter pillar candle.
