From Netherton Library

This is to advertise a children's creative writing competition that we are running in conjunction with Netherton's Christmas Light Switch On. The theme this year is traditions and it's open to children of all ages. We are also hosting two writing workshops during the half term holidays – at Bootle Library on Monday 26th October and then at Netherton Library on Thursday 29th October – both sessions are at 2.30pm. The sessions are aimed towards primary school aged children and are free, but spaces can be booked either by emailing the library or booking online here: <https://catalogue.sefton.gov.uk/Events/Calendar>

Crosby Library is also hosting a free lyric writing workshop with a local artist on Thursday 29th October at 10.30am. Booking for that session can be found here: <https://www.eventbrite.co.uk/e/writing-to-music-tickets-2002993792352>. This is aimed at children aged 8+.

A copy of the entry form is below. The prize is a £10 book voucher and everyone who enters will have their story published into a magazine. Entries can be submitted by email to Netherton.library@sefton.gov.uk or can be submitted in person to any of the six Sefton Libraries. Apologies that this is later in the week than intended, but if you could circulate this with any parents or children who would be interested, that would be much appreciated.
