Pirate Day

As another half term comes to an end we can look back and feel proud at how far we have come. The children have shown great resilience and tenacity as we try and bring about a new normal, the staff have worked exceptionally hard to ensure the pupils are happy and comfortable as they return to their learning and you, the parents, have supported in so many ways.

We continue to plan for a relaxation of some restrictions but are mindful of the need for a plan B.

As you know reading is our priority area so if I could ask you to spend some time over half term checking for any school books you have at home and return them to school when we come back. This would be very much appreciated. We spent over 5000 pounds last year on restocking our reading books and already those stocks are diminished. So please, check your bookshelves and school bags and return them to us.

Have a lovely half term break, take pleasure in the small things because if this pandemic has taught us anything it is the true importance of family and friends. Enjoy the sunshine
