Henry County has had outstanding growth in recent years. These new capital investments in our existing businesses along with new industrial, commercial, and retail companies are a testament to the security our business leaders have when choosing Henry County to start or maintain their business. We proudly promote the small-town, driven, and low-cost of living lifestyle that is Henry County! Which is what keeps our communities thriving.

As always, the CIC's basic mission is to create and maintain employment opportunities and increase capital investment in Henry County. We will continue to focus on the needs of our clients and partners, mainly those businesses that create jobs and investments. Our organization takes the initiative to assist businesses in growing as we continue to offer assistance with numerous financial and tax incentive programs. The 2026 goal will be to focus on retaining our workforce and making sure your employees have access to the training and upskilling education they may need. As well as continuing our relationships with our education systems to promote the various employment opportunities that await our future workforce upon graduation. Whether they proceed to college or the military or decide to enter the workforce directly after high school. We ensure that our teachers, guidance counselors, and students are aware of the employers that are eagerly here in Henry County, providing a quality of life for our future workforce. We also continue to creatively focus on marketing our county for future development and promote our rural communities. Be sure you stay connected through our website (www.henrycountyed.com).

JENNIFER ARPS
Executive Director

A Napoleon native and graduate, Jennifer's passion for her community and its economic well-being shines through in her dedication to grow Henry County. Jennifer's journey with the Henry County CIC began in 2015 with a deep-seated love for her hometown and a belief in its potential. Recognizing the challenges faced by rural communities, Jen focuses on ways to empower local businesses and create opportunities for residents. This passion has led her to become an Ohio Certified Economic Developer through the Ohio Economic Development Association as well as becoming the CIC's Executive Director in 2021. Jennifer's leadership style is characterized by a collaborative approach. She fosters strong relationships with businesses, community members, and stakeholders, ensuring a holistic understanding of the county's needs. Whether it's spearheading initiatives like attracting new businesses, supporting existing ones, or advocating for infrastructure development, Jennifer's dedication, and strategic thinking drive progress. Since her time with the CIC, Arps has brought close to $60 million in project investments for Henry County and has a strong desire to continue that momentum. Jennifer's continued vision for Henry County is one of thriving businesses, a skilled workforce, and a vibrant community where everyone has the opportunity to succeed. Jen and her son Grayson reside in Napoleon with their dog Remi and enjoy the many parks and trails Henry County has to offer.

Kylie has lived in Henry County a majority of her life. She is a 2009 graduate of Holgate High School. After completing high school, she began her professional journey in mortgage banking, spending nearly six years in the industry. Her career eventually led her to the Henry County Auditor's office, where she worked for five years. During that time, she focused on managing real estate records and licensing matters and interfacing with the public. In January of 2022, Kylie joined the Henry County CIC, continuing her tenure of service to the community. With 4 years under her belt her vision is centered on responsible, balanced growth that strengthens our local economy while respecting the values and land that define Henry County. I believe economic development and agriculture are not competing interests, but complementary ones—both essential to our community's long-term success. Kylie resides in Deshler, with her husband Adam and two boys, Oliver and Layton.
