Yes, you can authorize anyone to request your NSO birth certificate as long as they are 18 years old and above and have valid IDs. Do I need to provide any documents along with my authorization letter? Yes, you need to provide a copy of your valid IDs and any additional documents required by the NSO office, such as a marriage certificate or a court order proving guardianship. How long does it take to process the request? The processing time may vary depending on the volume of requests received and the mode of delivery chosen. It usually takes 3 to 7 working days for delivery within the Philippines, and 6 to 8 weeks for delivery overseas. Can I request for more than one copy of my NSO birth certificate? Yes, you can request for multiple copies of your NSO birth certificate using the same authorization letter. What if there is an error in my NSO birth certificate? If you discover any errors in your NSO birth certificate, you will need to file for a correction. You can do this by submitting a petition for correction at the local civil registry office where the birth was registered. Can I still request my NSO birth certificate even if I have lost my valid IDs? If you have lost your valid IDs, you can still request your NSO birth certificate by presenting other supporting documents such as a police clearance or a certification from your barangay captain. Conclusion Writing an authorization letter to get your NSO birth certificate is a simple process that can save you time and effort.
