Elderberry is a companion for those who walk liminal paths, seeking safety, clarity, and ancestral presence.

Notes for the Practitioner

Elderberry is an herb of quiet guardianship. It does not confront; it shields. It does not command; it guides. Call upon it when you need protection without aggression, when you seek the wisdom of those who came before, or when you walk a path that leads through dusk. Treat it with respect — the Elder tree is old, watchful, and remembers every soul that has passed beneath its branches.
