DR. AND MRS. RUFUS HESSBERG
HOST TIMLO REUNION

The Maryland-Virginia area reunion this year was held at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Rufus Hessberg, parents of Steve, Lee, and Jim. Dr. Hessberg is a former Timlo camper and counsellor.

The group gathered on Friday evening, February 9, for a supper reunion. There was an extremely good turnout of the campers living in the area. Only David Weaver, Tex Ladish, Robert Reining, Amos Hutchins, and the Rivers could not be with us.

The counsellor group was made up of Marilyn and Bill Ladish, Lee Hessberg, Mike Bragan, and Jim Murphy. The campers attending were Eddie Castle and his father, Doug Flagle, Jim Hessberg, Mike McCarthy, Allen Moore, Craig Sampson, Bill Smith with his father and a friend, Scott Howe, Chris Hutchins, and Kin Yellott from Baltimore.

After visiting for a period, we were invited to a delicious fried chicken buffet prepared by Mrs. Hessberg. This was followed by the cutting of the impressive Camp Timlo reunion cake which was iced and decorated with the Timlo green and white colors. We have some color slides of the cake and table which we are sure you will enjoy seeing sometime.

After a most enjoyable supper, we adjourned to the family room where we showed color slides and movies taken at camp last summer. As someone noted, there seemed to be extensive coverage of sailing. With this in mind, this summer we plan to shoot movies of other camp activities.

The reunion ended near 10:00 p.m. and some of us returned to Baltimore in a heavy snow squall. You may remember that that was during a very cold period. In fact, it was about zero the next morning.

We are most grateful to the Hessbergs for having the reunion in their home and for the delicious buffet supper which was enjoyed so much by everyone.

FEBRUARY TRAVELS

Our February travels started shortly after the New York reunion and took us from Lake George to as far as southern Florida. This sounds better than it was if you are expecting that we enjoyed warm, good weather the few days we were traveling across Florida. It was quite to the contrary.

The principal object of our trip at the beginning of February was to attend the reunions for the camps in the Maryland-Virginia areas. Timlo's reunion was on Friday night the 9th and Pine Log's reunion was on Saturday in Upper Marlboro.

Immediately after the Baltimore gathering we took a plane from Washington to Miami where we stayed with Roma and Del Jordan for one night. While there we had a very good visit on the telephone with Dick Stroh. He is practicing his tennis and is looking forward to coming north again this summer. From there we went to Ft. Lauderdale where we visited Coach Morris who is spending the winter there with his sister. We talked with the parents of Ricky and Ron Parker on the telephone.

On our way to Palm Beach we drove by the winter home of the Bakers. Don and Michael were home with their sister Karen and they displayed their catch of crabs which they were in the process of boiling in preparation for eating. If you know the Baker boys, you know they couldn't be happier than being located a few feet from the ocean where they can pursue their favorite activity of turning up rocks for whatever is underneath.

We talked with some friends in Palm Beach and then went west to see Joe Guerrero who lives in Belle Glade. From there we went to Winter Haven to interview some counsellor prospects and see some Pine Log staff members. Returning northeasterly on our way to Jacksonville, we met Peter Bixby who traveled from Melbourne to Orlando for a visit. He is doing well on his swimming team. In Jacksonville we had a very pleasant visit with Clark Johnston at the airport.

Returning to Washington just five days after we had left, we visited the Weavers that same day and also the Ladishes. On Sunday we saw John Diley and his

COUNSELLOR NEWS

Receiving a letter today from Reid Carlock at the U.S. Naval Academy reminds us that we have had a number of letters from campers and counsellors this winter, particularly very nice letters from the counsellors mentioned in Reid's letter. Robin Klar, who is now teaching in Oil City, Pa., sent us an interesting letter about his work. Before that we had heard from Jack Wilson who is in college in Tennessee and is getting married on May 25. This all ties in with Reid's letter as Jack's fiancée lives in Annapolis, Md., and Jack was visiting recently and stopped by to see Reid at the Naval Academy. He told him about his plans for May 25 and that Robin Klar is to be the Best Man. Reid says he enjoys the newsletters and was sorry to miss the reunions. He would welcome visits from any of the Timlo family if they are visiting Annapolis.

SAILING STARTS EARLY

Well, it really isn't starting early, but Roma and Del Jordan will be arriving from Florida by early April. Among other things, they will prepare the boats and facilities for sailing this summer. It will make camp seem like it's getting an early start with the Jordans here. What they may not know is that April in the Adirondacks can often be as cold and snowy at times as late February and March, but we'll let them come ahead.

family and visited Bruce and Joel Russo and their parents at their home in Virginia. Both are working hard on their swimming every day. On Monday we began our trip back, stopping in Baltimore for a day. We talked with some campers in the Philadelphia area and stopped by to see R.B. D'Iorio and his family. We got back to Lake George on Friday the 23rd in time to greet Betsy and Bob Northrop. They most recently were on the Pine Log staff, but Bob and his brothers trace their association with Timlo back to 1958.

The next major trips began the next week and included western New York, Ohio, Penna., Long Island, and Conn. This will be written in the April Timlog.
