

Hello, Friends!

Happy Friday!

This week, I was consumed with getting ready for Fall Quilt Camp and rebuilding my website (www.sewonthego.net). I've been planning on rebuilding my website for some time, but I've been a little busy. However, my web platform was being retired, which made it a must do! I hope you like it, I'm quite proud of it, especially given the time frame and my many other hats this week.

This week we kicked off Fall Quilt Camp in Rangeley, hosted by my good friends Dan and Carol Perkins of Threads Galore Quilt Shop.

I look forward to this retreat, it is such a beautiful time of year. Plus, the retreat is so well run thanks to Carol and Dan's expert experience honed over the last 15+ years. As I stated last week, I will forever be grateful, that they introduced me to the area, so many great quilters, and the beautiful Rangeley Inn.

This week we've had some snow flurries, lots of windy and some colder than usual temps for mid-October, even for Maine.

However, there was an even bigger surprise in Rangeley this week. Check out Moose that came to visit Threads Galore this week.... I guess he wanted to come to Fall Quilt Camp.

As many of you know, Dan and Carol have decided this Fall will be their last hosted retreat, which brings me great sadness, but I totally understand. Organizing a retreat takes a lot of advance planning to pull off a well run, well attended, and well loved Retreat. Quilt Camp at Rangeley is all of those things! I'm thrilled that my good friend, Lynn Wheatley is willing to partner with me for Fall Quilt Camp 2019, and that Travis and team, at the Rangeley Inn, were able to work with us and make it possible for Lynn and I to be able to host this wonderful Retreat in 2019. Many of the ladies here are registering for next year, but I expect we will make the waitlist. Lynn and I will be contacting folks over the next week, that are on the waitlist. If we have any spots after that, we will open it to the public.

Timeless with a Twist!

Block 37 - Crazy Ann

Block 37 is Crazy Ann

Crazy Ann, in an unknown clipping, is credited to Finley, dated in 1929. It is made up of double Split Rects, Square-in-Square and Shaded Four-Patches, which create that hexagon!

Be sure to check out my blog, for the link to the download.

Remember, you only have to Thursday, October 25th to download the instructions.

Make sure to share your blocks and quilts, on the Facebook group.
