Sam Vadakekut is a visionary entrepreneur, Strategic Wealth Advisor, and Kingdom steward with a mission to transform lives through the application of biblical financial principles. With over 25 years of entrepreneurial experience and a deep commitment to aligning business and finance with God's purpose, Sam has become a trusted mentor, speaker, and author in the realms of faith, finance, and entrepreneurship. For more than 15 years, he has studied money, wealth, and stewardship, analyzed over 2,000 scriptures, and researched financial systems—including banking, taxes, and laws—to develop strategies that help others retain more of what they earn while aligning their finances with God's principles.

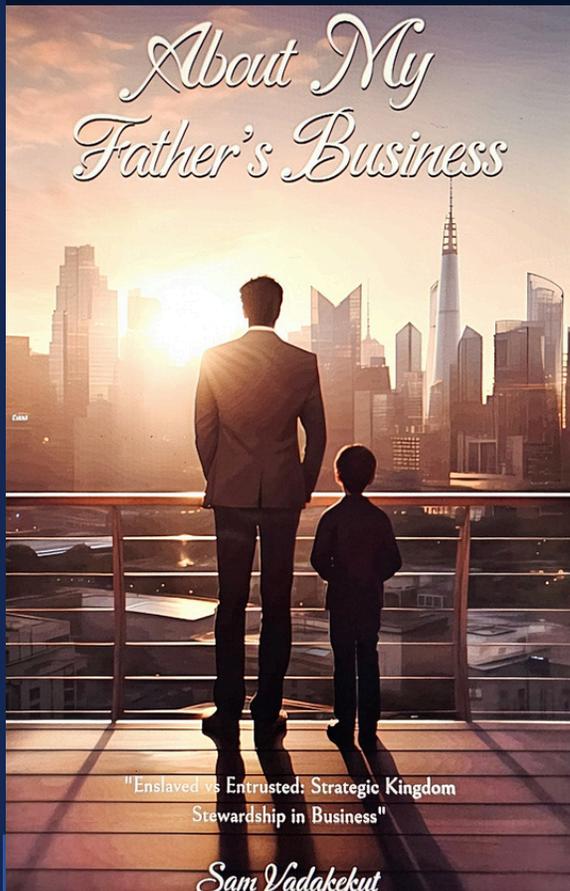

Sam's journey into Kingdom stewardship began with a revelation inspired by Proverbs 22:7: "The borrower is slave to the lender." Recognizing the enslaving power of debt, he embraced God's financial system rooted in trust, service, and divine purpose. Anchored by scriptures such as Matthew 6:24—"No one can serve two masters...You cannot serve both God and money"—and Luke 2:49—"Didn't you know I must be about my Father's business?"—Sam dedicated himself to creating righteous wealth for the expansion of God's Kingdom. His life's work calls on individuals to transition from a self-centered ownership mindset to a Kingdom-minded stewardship approach, experiencing the peace and joy of living under God's provision.

As a serial entrepreneur, Sam has built and scaled businesses across industries, including real estate development, commercial construction, healthcare, and sports. One of his most notable successes was transforming a struggling, debt-laden business into a thriving six-figure enterprise within 18 months through the application of biblical financial principles, strategic planning, and prayerful guidance. He also helped scale another real estate business partnership to over $15 million in revenue, starting with just a $20,000 investment. These achievements serve as a testament to the effectiveness of Kingdom-focused strategies in overcoming obstacles and achieving success. Sam combines timeless wisdom with actionable insights, helping others prioritize purpose over profit.

Sam's passion for teaching and coaching led him to establish a strategic wealth advisory firm dedicated to helping individuals and businesses steward their resources wisely. His approach stands apart from traditional financial planning, which often involves market risks, high taxes, and fees. Instead, Sam employs biblical principles and strategic financial tools that enable tax-free, risk-free growth, empowering his clients to protect their lives, income, and assets while aligning their finances with God's design.

About My Father's Business

ABOUT MY FATHER'S BUSINESS

In his debut book, About My Father's Business: Enslaved vs. Entrusted - Strategic Kingdom Stewardship in Business, Sam invites readers to leave behind the enslaved system of mammon—driven by materialism and greed—and embrace God's entrusted system. The book provides practical tools and relatable stories, equipping readers to achieve financial freedom while fulfilling their God-given purpose.

Sam's work is heavily influenced by thought leaders like Dr. Myles Munroe, Dr. Francis Myles, and Craig Hill, as well as his extensive study of over 2,000 biblical principles on money, wealth, and stewardship. These influences, combined with his personal experiences of perseverance through setbacks, have shaped his unwavering commitment to advancing Kingdom-focused financial strategies.

Beyond his professional endeavors, Sam is a mentor and coach who guides individuals through transformative journeys of discovering their divine calling, aligning their work with Kingdom values, and building legacies that honor God.

His coaching programs are designed to empower entrepreneurs, CEOs, and leaders—whom he refers to as “marketplace apostles”—to fulfill their God-given mission in the marketplace.

Sam's vision extends globally. Through speaking engagements, podcasts, educational courses, and coaching programs, he aims to bring the message of Kingdom stewardship to the nations. His ultimate goal is to inspire individuals to live abundantly, steward wealth wisely, and create eternal legacies that reflect God's love and provision. His global mission includes traveling to multiple countries to teach biblical principles of finance, ethical leadership, and stewardship.

Are you ready to embrace God's financial principles and steward your resources for eternal significance? Whether through his best-selling book, wealth advisory practice, business coaching, or speaking engagements, Sam Vadakekut is committed to equipping others to embrace God's financial principles and transform their lives, businesses, and communities. He is not just building businesses—he is building lives that resonate with eternal Kingdom values, expanding God's influence on earth for generations to come. Sam invites you to join him on this transformative journey and begin building a legacy that will echo through eternity.
