

Wee Welcome Newsletter

OCTOBER 2020

To existing clients:

If you recommend someone to us and they enroll for 4 or more weeks you will get one week free for one child. What a deal!

We have been enjoying the new park right next to us. Once the days get a little cooler (without the hot sun beating down on the black rubber) I'm sure we will be visiting it much more often.

Fun Activities for families to do in the Fall

Plant Spring Flower Bulbs

The best time to plant tulips bulbs is in the fall, about six to eight weeks before a hard frost is expected, according to The Old Farmer's Almanac. After a dreary winter, you'll be greeted by a yard full of beautiful flowers come springtime.

Take a Fall Foliage Drive

Pack the family into the car and set off on a scenic drive for a fun afternoon of leaf peeping.

Go Apple Picking

Find your favorite orchard to go pick and then make apple pies with them

Attend a Fall Festival

You can go to autumn events dedicated to food, crafts, music, art — or whatever else interests your family — all over the country.

Carve Pumpkins

Challenge your kids with silly pumpkin carving ideas.

Toast Pumpkin Seeds

From savory Parmesan herb spiced seeds to sweet and sugary cinnamon seeds — there's a delicious seed snack for every craving.

Treat Yourself to a Caramel Apple

Try a new and creative take on the classic sweet. Caramel apple slices, apple pie caramel apples, and chocolate pretzel caramel apples are just a few unique ideas.

Rake Leaves

This simple task is a great way to have some outdoor fun with your kids while boosting your home's curb appeal.

Make a Scarecrow

You don't have to be a farmer to enjoy displaying one of these cute guys in your yard.

Hike in the Fall Foliage

If your kids are too young to hike, opt for a shorter and easier nature walk.
