

Wee News

December 2019

Reminder to Existing Clients:

We are closed December 24, 25, 31, and January 1.

Dates to Remember

December 21 - January 1
No School

Please send your child with hats, weather proof mittens, (cloth mittens get wet and hands get cold) boots, and snow pants as we do try to the children out daily weather permitting.

December Preschool Themes:

- ~Sweet Treats
- ~Deck the Halls
- ~Christmas Around the World
- ~Happy New Year

The holidays bring special childproofing challenges. All fireplaces must be securely screened, and candle holders and menorahs placed out of reach. Even so, your child should never be left unattended in any room containing an open flame. Poisonous plants as mistletoe, poinsettias, and holly may be more accessible during this time of year, so be sure to keep them out of reach. Holiday can present other hazards as well. Even a small amount of wine, beer, or liquor sipped from an unattended glass at a party may be highly toxic to a child this age. Keep glasses at adults-only level. And watch out for party foods that might present a choking hazard. Among the most dangerous are nuts, olives, small hard candies, cocktail franks, and popcorn.

Finally, protect your child by displaying and decorating your Christmas tree carefully. Secure your tree in a wide, stable base so there's no chance that a little one's tug will topple it, and if it's a pine, make sure your child doesn't try eating the needles, which are a choking hazard. Anything hung within reach of your child should be sturdy, too large to swallow, and free of sharp edges, toxic paint, and small parts that might be pulled off and swallowed. Tinsel is also a choking hazard, so save it for when your child is older.

~Please Welcome~

Anisa, Joelle, Saraiya and Laura. Wee are so happy to have you with us!

Nash	December 1
Zackary	December 17
Joelle	December 29
Saraiya	December 29

We would like to take this opportunity to wish our clients a safe and happy holiday season. Take the time to spend with your friends and families – the dusting and cleaning can wait!