ART NEWS

“INSIDE OUT”

Art105 had it's first Art Opening with a group of artists just before we went into quarantine. The show is called “Inside Out”. The term “Inside Out” refers to the big reveal, where something at the inner core shifts to an outward expression. This can manifest on many levels; physically, emotionally, and spiritually. In this show, 4 artists were chosen for their unique way of how they reveal what is often hidden or ignored.

Brad Davis

incorporates multiple layers of texture in his paintings which encourage the viewers to move into his tactile 3D worlds. By bringing the surface 'out' the viewer is drawn 'in' to experience a unique history within the layers of paint.

"The Intimate Experience of Calmness"

Doug Hammett

has taken on the persona of "Candy" when painting with saturated colors on heavily textured surfaces. This series finds playful relationships between inner and outer worlds. Unexpected narratives develop as figurative and abstraction dance side by side.

"Flight of the Sacred Warrior"

Outi Harma's

archetypal paintings use the language of the mythological female to move out of the emotional landscaped that are normally held deep within the recesses of one's being. Her images merge the visible and invisible worlds.

"Between the Worlds"

David Hollen

brings to view the often hidden fundamental geometric patterns of life, that form the inner structures of nature, such as Beehives, Sea Sponges, and bubble foam, and sea plankton skeletons.

OPENING NIGHT

It was a wonderful Opening Night as we gathered as an art loving community before the world went into quarantine. Here are some special moments of the night.
