The Thompson Family

Alejandra Ochoa de Thompson first introduced American designers to her vision of “jewelry for the kitchen and bath” when she and her family launched Thompson Traders in 2003. Since then, the Greensboro, North Carolina company has established itself as the source for original pieces of exquisite beauty and craftsmanship for the kitchen and bath. A designer who has transformed an ancient craft into timeless art, Alejandra’s distinctive aesthetic is reflected in the sinks, bath tubs and accessories that are hand-crafted by metal smiths using techniques perfected in 14th century Mexico.

Radiant stainless steel, brass, nickel and copper form the raw materials of Thompson Traders’ artistry, enhanced by special finishes, textures and custom capabilities. No matter the material or finish, every piece is a personal invitation to experience a world of incomparable beauty.

Tortuga Collection

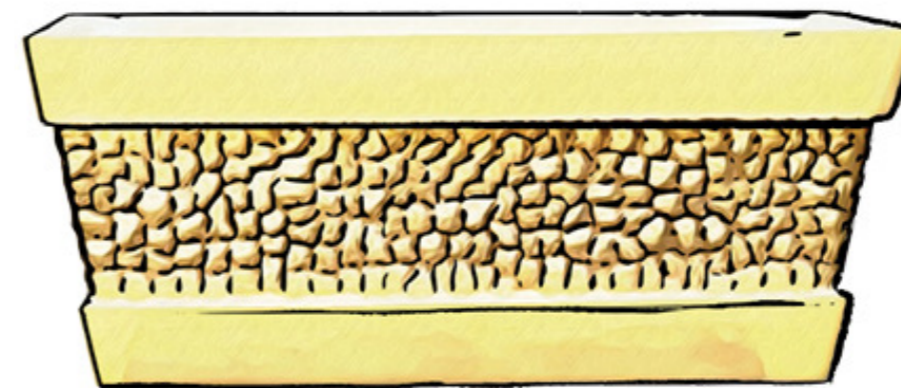

The Tortuga Collection was inspired by the weathered shell of a tortoise and interpreted by skilled artisans from Santa Clara del Cobre using 15 different chisles. The realistic texture is destined not only to become an eye-catching focal points but to be tactile, as well. The collection includes a vanity, bathtub, range hood, kitchen sink and bar sinks and are available in custom sizes.

Fresh off the container and rushed to market, so sorry no photography yet, but we wanted you to be the first to view the incredible Tortuga Collection.

Vessel Collection

Always searching for her next muse, Alejandra Ochoa de Thompson, founder and creative director of Thompson Traders, found inspiration in architecture, textiles, and the elegant mixtures of tones and textures when creating the Vessels Collection.

While each piece is remarkably unique individually, the Vessels Collection encompasses every style. Whether blending eclectic designs or focusing on a specific aesthetic, one of these stunning sinks will become the focus of the room.”

THOMPSON TRADERS

Beacon Custom Lighting's factory has operated in a region of the Czech mountains know for its tradition of glass-making that began centuries ago. No matter the shape or concept, each piece entrusted to our artisans is bench-made with intention from premium materials such as crystal, brass and alabaster.

In the Thompson Traders' booth you will find examples of the Pond chandelier which compliments the Quintana Collection and the Helik which shines over the Tortuga Collection.
