Forum on the Prevention and Treatment of COVID-19 Complications and sequelae

时间：12/16-12/19 | Dec.16-19,2022

Public Welfare Conference Invitation

Dear ladies and gentlemen,

Today, when the epidemic has lasted for nearly three years, COVID-19 is still spreading rapidly, causing great suffering to patients and families. Especially complications post-sequelae, these can seriously harm people's health and life.

Preliminary knowledge: About half of the world's people are positive for COVID-19 infection. We have seen with our own eyes that many families, old and young, are unable to move and suffer from fever, and other painful symptoms. And there are a large number of infected people who have not been tested and become virus carriers. People around the world live in harsh environments and can be infected at any time. In order to help stop the rapid infection of COVID-19, we aim to treat the complications and sequelae of infected people as soon as possible, purify their homes, and rebuild the health of the whole person. The World Federation of Integrated Medical Societies cooperated with well-known academic groups in hundreds of countries and regions in the Americas, Asia, Europe, Australia and Africa to jointly organize the Sixth World Conference on Integrated Medicine and the Forum on the Prevention and Control of Coronavirus Complication and Sequelae.

COVID-19 destroys the human body's mass array of defensive mechanisms and immune responses, and can cause various cardiovascular and cerebrovascular diseases, systemic pain, hyperglycemia, gastrointestinal diseases, endocrine disorders, eye, ear, nose and throat diseases, gynecological dysmenorrhea, amenorrhea, menstrual disorders, infertility, menopausal syndrome, tumors, and depression. It can also seriously affect children's growth and learning. Due to the destruction of the immune system, adults' psychological stress, and insomnia, we have seen elderly dementia greatly increased, as well as an increased risk of stroke. Thus, the 6th World Conference of Integrated Medicine and the Forum on the Prevention and Treatment of Coronavirus Complications and Sequelae was launched, especially in December 2022. On the 16-19th, it will be held online and offline at the University of East-West Medicine in the United States and in Shenzhen, China.
