Introduction

1.1 OVERVIEW

Sustainability and Green buildings, two terms are spreading nowadays in the construction Industry and aiming to transform the way we build, with Global issues like climate change, Global Warming, Environmental quality, rapid resources shortage and all other Built environment challenges. We shouldn't treat sustainability as an option or luxury choice. Regenerative and sustainable thinking should be our approach.

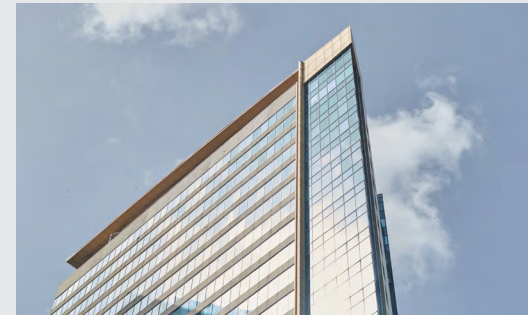

Given the demands of today's facilities and the market trends, green construction solutions present a strong opportunity to capture value and cost savings while positively impacting the earth. If implemented properly, your green building practices can pay off, not only in environmental impact and sustainable ROI, but also in direct financial ROI, a more livable facility setting and a higher property value.
