ABOUT THESE ASSESSMENTS

These breeder-developed temperament and aptitude profiles combine evaluations at approximately eight weeks old with our daily observations of each puppy throughout development. Testing includes social interaction, handling, play, problem-solving, obstacles, and responses to new sights and sounds.

Temperament testing is a snapshot of emerging tendencies—not a prediction of who a puppy will become. Puppies continue to develop through experience, training and lifestyle. We use these observations to help identify the puppy whose natural tendencies may best complement each family.

Rosalie Royale

Affectionate • People-Loving • Gentle • Confident • Connected

AT A GLANCE

Social Style:	Exceptionally People-Focused + Connected
Activity Style:	Playful + Balanced
Learning Style:	Socially Motivated + Cooperative
Handling:	Exceptionally Comfortable + Relaxed
Novelty:	Curious → Explore → Reconnect

OVERALL PERSONALITY

Rosalie's standout characteristic is wonderfully simple: She loves people. Human interaction appears to be intrinsically rewarding to her. She seeks affection, enjoys physical closeness and has consistently demonstrated extraordinary comfort with being touched and handled.

In fact, Rosalie has been one of the most naturally comfortable puppies we've personally raised when it comes to physical handling and affection.

What makes this quality particularly appealing is that her strong human connection does not appear to limit her independence. She comfortably leaves people to explore, investigate and play—and then happily reconnects.

HER EMERGING PERSONALITY

Relational Warmth

For Rosalie, connection itself seems worthwhile. She doesn't always need something from the person. She simply seems to genuinely enjoy being with them.

Her behavioral message feels like: "Being with you is rewarding."

WHAT WE SAW DURING TEMPERAMENT TESTING

- Exceptional comfort with touch and handling
- Exceptional human affiliation and social engagement
- Quick, friendly interaction with unfamiliar people
- Strong physical affection and social softness
- Good environmental confidence and independent exploration
- Good play and problem-solving engagement
- Very good recovery and adaptability
- Human attention appears to be an especially powerful reward
- No indication that her strong affection is driven by inability to function independently

SHE MAY BE ESPECIALLY WELL-SUITED FOR

- A family dreaming of a true cuddle companion
- Someone who values physical affection and close human-dog connection
- A home where her natural social warmth can be appreciated and encouraged
- A household interested in continued therapy or emotional-support aptitude evaluation

POTENTIAL APTITUDES

Rosalie currently shows some of the litter's most promising early characteristics for therapy and emotional-support companionship, particularly her exceptional human affiliation, social warmth and handling comfort.

For more formal assistance-oriented work, continued development would need to demonstrate sustained task focus, working motivation, environmental neutrality and appropriate regulation.

As with all puppies, these are early aptitude observations—not a prediction or guarantee of future therapy, service or working suitability.

THINGS TO KNOW

Rosalie's affection should not be confused with dependency. She demonstrates healthy independent exploration and can engage comfortably with her environment without remaining constantly attached to a person.

Her best match will likely be someone who genuinely values her extraordinary social gift, rather than simply wanting an easygoing puppy.
