Veronica Henley is no stranger to mysteries. She's one of the most celebrated mystery writers in print. Henley is known for her realism and her ability to terrify readers, but things are about to become a little too real. Veronica finds herself caught up in a world straight out of her books, one that becomes a legitimate nightmare. She will have to use all of her skills as a writer and a would-be detective to survive the horrors that await.

Beauty, the saying goes, is only skin deep. The beauty of Nip/Tuck is that it goes deeper, laying bare the complexities and fragile natures often found in patients seeking cosmetic surgery. Dylan Walsh and Julian McMahon portray hotshot Miami South Beach plastic surgeons who are themselves in full-blown midlife crises as they confront career, family and romance problems.

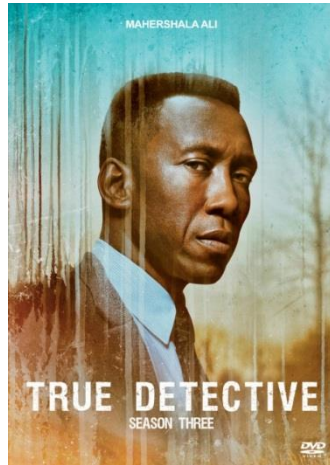

The skeptical psychologist Dr. Margaret Matheson and her assistant, physicist Tom Buckley, are specialists in disclosing fraudulent paranormal phenomena. When the famous psychic Simon Silver reappears to his public after many years of absence, Tom becomes singularly obsessed in determining whether Silver is a fraud or not.

A soldier known for not breaking under torture is dead. At least, that's what the masses believe. The truth is that there is an afterlife for some soldiers when they are retired from their roles in either war or everyday international espionage. In his afterlife, the man, a secret agent, receives an unbelievable mission: He must help others to prevent World War III. The threat isn't nuclear. It's something far worse. The only way to open doors and find the answers that he seeks is to know a single word. Of course, he must also remember that some events haven't happened yet.

An alien spacecraft is uncovered below Antarctic ice by an eight-person research team from Norway. It is the year 1982. An American paleontologist is recruited to help investigate their discovery. It is revealed that the team also found an alien lifeform from the spacecraft that crashed. The alien comes to life and escapes. The team must hunt it down so they may survive, but find that it can take the shape and imitate almost anyone.

Will and Julie Purcell, the children of feuding parents Tom and Lucy Purcell, go missing a week after Halloween in West Finger, Ark.
2015:
Retired detective Wayne Hays (Mahershala Ali), who originally investigated the crime, is asked to look back on the twists of the unsolved case with a true-crime documentary producer.

Russell Crowe stars as a disturbed man who is tired of feeling rejected and oppressed. He becomes deranged when a young woman, Rachel, running late for work, honks her horn and tries to cut into his traffic lane. This incident spikes unbelievable anger in him and he doles out revenge by terrorizing her and other people she knows. This suspenseful story deals with the frightening aspect of 'road rage' and recounts how one small incident can turn into a deadly chase.

The Dutton family is threatened by new foes and lucrative business deals, forcing John, Kayce, Beth and Jamie to form unexpected alliances.
