No worries. Truth always comes out. And everyone in town is slowly realizing how sketchy and greedy you guys are. I assume you don't even know the amount of parents that are disgusted by your establishment lately. As well as the therapists that come in, oh but only the ones you allow to come in. Interesting how you pick and choose who sees what goes on. Hmmm.

Medicaid said they'll handle it as I told them you are being uncooperative. And nicely done on all your lies on how well you guys strive to be in your google reviews. Can't even hang onto a simple RBT without doing a whole ass hiring event for them. Willing to hire anybody lol.

Thanks for nothing as always!

Emily,

I am really not sure why you hate SOH so much. You failed to follow policies at SOH. Your insurance changed without you telling us. We continued to do everything to support your family and worked very hard with your child when you would actually show up.

I haven't done anything to harm you or your child. I have not and would not ask for services from your insurance that we aren't providing, so yes, your insurance is wrong. And I will not access your private information or call on your behalf, as you're not a client. Nothing shows up on our end, nor have we received anything from medicaid at all regarding any authorizations.

As far as your comments about my business, you have no idea what is going on here. I rarely hire and I did create an event because I am promoting several people. You are very wrong about me and I am not sure why you are so hateful about me. I have wonderful clients and do not have turnover. In fact, I rarely get applications that meet standards so I created an event to draw more people in. I receive hundreds of applicants but most don't meet minimum standards. I've only continued to grow and thrive and have amazing relationships with both my clients and staff.

I've been in this area my entire life. You can say what you want, but I have worked very hard to get to where I am. I came from nothing and do this out of my desperation that I had when there was nothing for my kids. I have 3 children with ASD. I don't need validation from you, but I would like to try to understand why you are so hateful towards me and my company and why you continue to spread lies, Emily.

I've dedicated my life to my career and helping families in my community. I've been doing this for 14 years and have met and helped hundreds of families over the years and network with all of the local pediatric providers. People don't believe what you say about me because they know me and I've been here longer than you. But I can tell you that I am growing weary of your hateful words toward me that are totally unjustified. Services don't always work out for every family for one reason or another but it is rare that people are so unkind, as you are and I just don't get it. What is your actual deal? Why do you dedicate this effort into trying to harm my reputation when I am out here just trying to help people and support my family, just like you.

My call log is literally free since I got off the phone with Medicaid telling me you had the codes lol so you keep on typing your big game with your fat asses. Have you gotten your steps in today? Or you counting the keyboard as your excessive for the day lol you're both disgusting human beings and your kids parents know it. Go ahead and Call me bitch ass. I got recording ready to go.

Oh that's right you don't take care of the kids you just sit and stare at screens all day. Like you are right now. Hahahahahaha. Fucking pathetic. Fighting a mom who got her kid out of your shitty environment. Instead of making sure your RBTS aren't stuck in their phones like they were years ago. Lead by example I see!

Full of hate to you and your gross ass pervert husband yeah, who treat the kids and parents like shit. But you keep trying to walk high and mighty. Everyone has been seeing your true colors. We are slowly on the verge of getting your reputation ruined. Having Joey Psychology remove you from their recommendations is the biggest step yet. I am excited for you to see your future where your establishment falls apart in front of you as me and a handful of other parents who had the unfortunate of letting you know our kids lives have come together and come up with legal actions. My screenshots I've saved over the years of you guys have come in handy for sure! Have a GREAT day! Will "pray" for you idiots.

too many issues to list. i had a gut feeling not to bring my daughter here when they ignored her during the assessment and just stayed on their computers instead of observing her. but i needed to give it a chance for her sake. unfortunately it was pointless. from july - september she barely was able to attend because of their own facility and employment issues, they messed up her insurance and they were very rude and unprofessional saying i'd have to pay everything if the insurance doesn't give them back pay (i have texts to prove how rude they were to me, even though i didn't do anything), they would tell me to bring her in and then after showing up at the door they would say never mind, can you come tomorrow instead, they would make me pick her up early in no notice if she was tired or if she had a bug bite on her arm, they were very inconsistent on her rbt chasing them every other week when she was supposed to every other week when she was supposed to have just one. they never gave me any updates on her when she was there, i had no idea about good or bad moments, they would always have me leave out the door immediately so they can prep for the next kid, even if i did try to ask how her day was. she learned nothing. she gained no skills. she might as well have just stayed here with me. i have text proof of everything. Oh and they like to talk a big game over the computer. Likes to dish it out but can't back it up. Husband/admin (Pat) asked me to do lunch together to a separate building with him on a lunch break alone, made comments about the shirts I wore saying he wished his wife would be comfortable wearing stuff like that. Also they claim they aren't worried about legal action taken against them... but they are obsessed with emailing me being in the defense lol they actually don't leave me alone. They are disgusting and so unprofessional. People think they're going to be great because they don't have a waiting list. Not the case. They are just money hungry and will accept any kids when they

People think they're going to be great because they don't have a waiting list. Not the case. They are just money hungry and will accept any kids when they don't even have the proper amount of RBTS per kid. My kids insurance told me they were stil claiming her authorized codes as active when they haven't seen her in almost two years now. And they always feel the need to respond to me on here and in my email after I update my review for what new and improved thing they've done to me. I don't care. I'll call them every horrible name in the book because they're that deserving of such. They are awful, perverted, and unprofessional. They don't care so why should I.

Emily,

That number is not connected to my business. You are now engaging in harassment and defamation for no reason. I've never done anything to you. You need to stop.

I literally work with kids and you're working to try to harm me when I've never done anything to you.

Stop it now Emily. Enough is enough with your lies and hatefulness.

I have worked very hard to establish my business and help the families that I do so that I can in turn care for my disabled children. What is wrong with you?

We already have the proof so I would suggest being professional for once in your lives and stop texting and emailing me, I'm already lawyered up and ready to go.

I've never texted you Emily. Using an illegitimate site and doctoring a photo to make it look like my business line is proof of nothing because I did nothing. Lawyer for what? I haven't done anything Emily. You're the one calling me names, insulting me, and harassing me for no reason.
