

Made With Love

We'll chat for a bit, laugh for a little, share some data, we'll rename a Facebook group, we'll wash something with an ADK as its tail, thrash it against that old list we found on the USB in the top draw of that weird guy who sat next to Theodore and sometimes we'll create a recipe for the God's.

And it's brilliance will surpass anything mandated to crawl around on automation. Anything. And that is what I will always hold true to.
