

Reverence

Stand quietly beside me.
Strength does not need to be loud.

Reverence

---

Reverence is the quiet recognition that something matters.

A horse does not rush toward what is sacred.

The horse approaches slowly.

The horse stands still.

The horse listens before moving.

Reverence is not fear.

It is not worship.

It is not performance.

It is the steady awareness that life is larger than impulse.

From the horse's perspective, reverence looks like:

Lowered head

Softened breath

Ears attuned

Hooves planted

Reverence teaches patience.

It teaches humility.

It teaches restraint.
