Nothing is off limits in this unhinged and unfiltered weekly comedy show hosted by Greg Alprin, and a rotating co-host chair of some of his funniest freinds.

The show's unique variety of content is hilarious and insightful features an array of refreshing personalities finding the humor in real life situations.

Every week, SOMEWHAT DAMAGED bring discussions on comedy, music, lifestyles, pro sports- all aspects of pop-culture

With a keen eyes for the comedic, Greg spends time getting to know his guests, leading to hilarious and, also often touching, discussions.

Alprin explains, "I feel like all our guests are friends, even if we just met, which gives our listeners the feeling they are peeking into a great conversation between pals catching up over a drink or chicken wings."

What Our Listeners Are Saying About the Show...

Top pick for Driving Entertainment

This is a great pod hands down. The banter between the hosts accommodates the guest in a way where you understand the overall message. Their personalities on these episodes make me wonder what all the comics are truly like on stage.

Laugh out loud funny

This show is entertaining, interesting and provides insight into the up and coming comedian. I've literally spit out my coffee laughing at some of the conversations.

Like hanging with buddies

Solid podcast that feels like hanging with friends who know interesting and funny people. If you're a fan of comedians, or comedy podcasts definitely give this a listen. They have really interesting guests who aren't your typical A listers, so it's great to hear new stories in the entertainment world!

Couldn't stop laughing

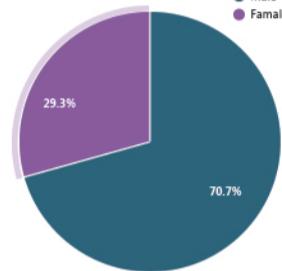

Seriously, I couldn't stop laughing. They had to take me to the emergency room. I almost died.
