

Day 4: Responding to What He Has Done

Devotional

When someone does something truly extraordinary for you, something you could never repay, it changes you. Not because you feel obligated, but because you are genuinely moved. That is the kind of response God is looking for from us.

Living out your faith is not about following a checklist to stay in God's good graces. It is about responding to a love so deep and a sacrifice so costly that it reshapes your entire life. When you truly grasp what Jesus gave up for you, obedience stops feeling like a burden and starts feeling like the most natural thing in the world.

Loving God with all your heart, soul, strength, and mind is not a demand from a distant ruler. It is the overflow of a heart that has been genuinely touched by grace. You give Him everything because He gave you everything first.

You may not feel like you have much to offer. That is okay. Start with what you have. Start with honesty. Start with showing up. God is not looking for perfection. He is looking for a heart that is turned toward Him.

Bible Verse

"And he answered, 'You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind, and your neighbor as yourself.'" - Luke 10:27

Reflection Question

What is one area of your life where you have been holding back from God, and what would it look like to surrender that to Him today?

Quote

"My only response is, respond to the goodness of God by giving Him all my heart, all my soul, all my strength and all my mind."

Prayer

Father, I want to respond to Your love with my whole life, not just part of it. Show me where I am holding back, and give me the courage to give You everything. Amen.
