

Day 5: He Has Never Let Go

Devotional

There will be moments in life when you wonder if God is still holding up His end of the deal. When things fall apart, when prayers seem unanswered, when the road gets long and hard, doubt can creep in. But here is what is true: God has never once broken His covenant with His people.

His blood sealed this covenant. That is not a temporary arrangement or a conditional promise. It is permanent. And because it is built on His faithfulness and not yours, it cannot be undone by your worst day or your biggest failure.

Look back over your life. Even in the hardest seasons, can you see places where God showed up? Where He provided, protected, or simply held you together when you felt like falling apart? That was not coincidence. That was a covenant-keeping God doing what He promised.

You can move forward today with confidence, not because everything is perfect, but because the One who made the covenant is perfectly faithful. He has not forgotten you. He has not moved on. He is still right here, and He is not going anywhere.

Bible Verse

"I have been young, and now am old, yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken or his children begging for bread." - Psalm 37:25

Reflection Question

When you look back on your life, where can you see evidence of God keeping His promises to you, even in seasons when you did not recognize it at the time?

Quote

"I have seen the righteous. I have been young and I've been old, but I've never seen the righteous forsaken or their seed begging for bread. I've never seen my God not keep His side of the covenant with me."

Prayer

God, thank You for being faithful even when I doubted. Help me to trust Your covenant promises today and to walk forward with confidence in Your unchanging love. Amen.
