So how will you hear with Eargo Neo?

Eargo Neo supports a wider bandwidth and a better acoustic response in higher frequencies than previous innovations, according to the company's announcement, to help provide improved feedback performance with added stable gain capability for signal below 65dB SPL. Eargo Neo's rechargeable battery can be charged over night and the hearing aids can last up to 16 hours on full charge, even a quick 30 minute charge allows the user to use them for 2-3 hours. The portable charging cradle is also rechargeable - with a full charge this can last up to seven days.

Sound familiar? Think Air Pods.

Eargo Neo's amplify the sounds within your range of sight, unlike behind-the-ear devices whose microphones only amplify sound from the back of your ear. This way you can hear what matters without any distractions.

For those with a sensorineural hearing loss, function of hearing in the mid to high frequencies is what is mostly compromised, Eargo's open fit allows for amplification of these mid-high frequencies while the Flexi-Palms allow natural low frequencies to pass through your eardrum. The key assist lets your hearing aids concentrate on amplifying these mid-high frequencies better than ever, giving your ears a nice mix of ambient and amplified sounds.

Now that we know how great Eargo is, lets talk $$$

EARGO NEO invisible hearing aids are available at all b8ta stores for a total of $2,750, yes we know this is quite expensive - as all hearing aids are. However, Eargo offers a sound investment with flexible payment plans as low as $127/month and come with a 45 day money back guarantee if you realize maybe these aren't the perfect fit for you and your ears.

Now that we've discussed all the perks of Eargo's lets discuss what you are missing, because here at Neurohear, we're realists and we have high expectations for all our hearing needs.

Because Eargo's is a direct -to-consumer health tech company it does not work with audiologists to help you with this process. What's more helpful than a real human to human connection when dealing with such a loss of communication?

In any case, definitely speak to your audiologist before choosing a hearing aid as their job is to make the process easier for you, and if you're still wondering about Eargo, check out any b8ta store near you to try on a pair before any payment commitments!

Thank you for reading!
