ON FARM ACTIVITIES HELD AT FOREST GLEN JERSEYS

Forest Glen Jerseys was established in 1965 when Dan Bansen's family moved to Oregon from Humboldt County, California with only 35 cows. In 1974 a second dairy, Forest Glen Oaks was added to help support the family. In 1990, Dan bought out his father and was milking 150 cows. The farm was transitioned to organic in 1995 when they started shipping milk to Organic Valley, and since then has expanded to milking over 2,000 Jersey cows on two dairies. The farms are currently operated by Dan Bansen, his daughter Jamie and business partners Robert and Stewart Kircher.

The rest of the operation is made up of two heifer ranches, over 3,000 acres of certified organic farmland including, over 1,000 acres of irrigated pasture, a hay ranch in central Oregon, and land spread out through the Willamette valley used for growing corn, alfalfa, grains, and a few miscellaneous cash crops.
