Dr. Brad Kissell

Brad Kissell, VMD

Owner Sylvan Veterinary Hospital

Growing up in Altoona, Dr. Kissell graduated from the Altoona Area High School in 2002. He attended Juniata College where he majored in Biology and graduated Summa Cum Laude in 2006. He went on to obtain his doctorate of veterinary medicine from the University of Pennsylvania in 2010. Following graduation, he traveled back to Central Pennsylvania where he practiced for over 4 years with his mentor. Dr. Kissell also had the great opportunity to work 6 months at CPVETS, a 24 hour emergency clinic in State College. Dr. Kissell opened Sylvan Veterinary Hospital in 2015 and enjoys operating his business and serving the people in his hometown. Dr. Kissell's veterinary interests include but are not limited to orthopedic and soft tissue surgery and emergency medicine.

Dr. Lawrence Bagley

Lawrence Bagley, DVM, Diplomate American College of Veterinary Ophthalmologists

Dr. Bagley heads the ophthalmology department at Pittsburgh Veterinary Specialty & Emergency Center in Ohio Township, PA. He graduated college in his home state at the University of Arizona. After becoming a Doctor of Veterinary Medicine at Colorado State University, Dr. Bagley returned to Arizona to complete a small animal internship at Mesa Veterinary Hospital. He then did his veterinary ophthalmology residency at Eye Clinic for Animals in Los Angeles, CA. He is a Diplomate of the American College of Veterinary Ophthalmologists (ACVO) and has lectured at many state and national veterinary association conferences and has written articles for national veterinary journals. Dr. Bagley has been practicing veterinary ophthalmology in Pittsburgh since 1997.

Dr. Sara M. Litzinger

Sara Litzinger, VMD SVH Associate Veterinarian

Dr. Sara M. Litzinger is originally from Hollidaysburg, Pennsylvania, graduating from Hollidaysburg Area Senior High School in 2005. She then attended The Pennsylvania State University, where she obtained her Bachelor's degree in Animal Biosciences in 2014. From there, she went on to attend The Ohio State University College of Veterinary Medicine, earning her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine degree in 2019.

The clinic veterinary team will be assisted by a qualified, experienced staff of veterinary technicians from Sylvan Veterinary Hospital.
