Welcome to The Den Hoorn Preserve

Welcome

Thanks for choosing to stay with us. We are so glad you have decided to choose this experience and we want to make sure you have a 5-star stay.

The Den Hoorn Preserve is an integral part of the original 750-acre tract known as the Shelburne Glebe which was established prior to the American Revolution in 1772. It originally served as the church farm for the local Shelburne Parish of the Church of England. We will be happy to tell you the stories that make its historical presence so interesting.

And, be sure to inquire about that 60-gallon copper still that made the local village such a unique community in the early days of the 19th century!

There are so many activities to enjoy right here on the property that it is sometimes difficult to get up and go somewhere else. Nevertheless, we will be pleased to offer our insights that arise from living in Loudoun County for nearly 40 years. Just ask!

Nearby, there are wonderful sites to visit, countless restaurants, over 40 wineries, 20+ breweries, and a couple of highly rated distilleries.

You will find details within this guide.

Enjoy yourselves,

Bill & Woody
