3Bears Dino is my donation to the raffle Trio. He is a black otter senior buck out of 3Bears Barney who was the BOG Tan at JW Nationals this year, is the #57 Rabbit of the Year and has 17 legs and 3Bears Sweeten the Deal who has 1 leg and has retired to give me awesome babies. Dino already has 3 legs the he earned beating his dad. Dino wasn't being very cooperative while taking pictures, but he has a massive head and large thick well furred ears to go with his massive body at 3lbs 8 oz. His main fault is a softer coat. He is a proven breeder and just produced 5 babies with the current breeding.

Allstar's Dot is a broken black. She has a nice width of chest and depth of chest. Good shoulders, midsection and full to the table. She has a nice topline. Her coat is an easy care coat. If I would change anything, I would like to see more length; however, there are no points on length. She is a young senior, so should only get better with age. Our lines usually mature at 2 years old. Her faults are obviously her pattern. She is lightly patterned doe. She has a dot over her spine and a dot on top of her tail plus a few dots on her belly. Her sister and her dam both have plenty of color, so we are thinking she should have modifiers to throw a nicer pattern.

This rabbit is out of the 2022 BOSG Tan doe, Pi's Fatal Attraction and a very nice smoke pearl buck out of similar lines. This rabbit also has close ties to the BOB winner, Pi's Witness. She has several BIS/RIS winning animals in her background, including two number 1 ROTY animals, Pi's Ingotus and Pi's Arctic Ice. This doe is typey, though I feel she still has some development coming. She has good proportion of head/ear/body size, and appears nicely balanced. Her ear is nicely shaped and carried well. Her coat has good texture and will have good density. Her nails are dark. I would wish for a slightly higher shoulder for her, though she has decent width and chest depth.

Barbie's Shelby is a very promising doe with a round compact body, a pretty head with thick, open, well furred ears and an easy care coat. Although she has a good topline and is smooth over the hips, I would like to see more fullness in her hindquarter and she could be closer to the ideal weight of 3 lbs. She is from a shaded background and her Siamese sable sister was in the Top 5 at the 2023 JW Nationals. Shelby has a BOG leg won on 4/1/23. Her sire and dam's lines have been great producers for me and Shelby will be a nice addition to any program.

My favorite part of Leo is his humongous head. He is proven and I am already planning to show his offspring. I picked Leo as by GFA donation because I think he can really help someone with their rabbitry. He will make an awesome asset to someone's agouti program.

Groovy is a REALLY nice buck! He's going to have a super cute head, He has nice short ears with good substance and they sit right where they should be. He has super amazing type and he is wide throughout his whole body. He is also a Pi's Swiss Miss (65 legs) grand baby who he reminds me a lot of as they have the same body structure. His coat is a bit cottony currently because he still has his baby coat and is starting to molt into his senior coat. Both parents have amazing textured coats, so I have no doubts that he will have the same as a senior.

Pocahontas was one of those juniors that we knew at 4 months was gonna be a winner and she is. As a junior, she won BOSB and went on to take Best of the Best Opposite at Missouri County fair. She is proven & has taken a lot of time away from showing to have babies. We just took her to Belton, TX on 9/9 and with around 67 jersey woolies, she won her class all weekend and also took BOB in 1 of the 3 shows. She has Carlie's signature must-have shoulders. She's short, compact with short little ears. Her best quality is her color and her fur. This picture was taken tonight, but her fur gets much bigger & longer. She's coming back from blowing her coat and her head isn't filled in yet. She normally has a beautiful wool cap and more boxy looking head. Our knock on Pochy would be, she needs more bootie. She is a registered Grand Champion. Last weekend at the show, the judge went to weigh Pochy because she "looks so big". He came back and said "nope, that's all hair". We've never had this color before & everyone debates her color. Some judges walk away to ask about it and they all give different comments on it, but she is definitely showable.

My Golden Fleece Auction rabbit for 2023 is Mr Goodbar, a siamese sable Marten buck. Goodbar is only 8 months old, but already has an incredible solid body with a massive head and thick well rounded ears. He has a nice compact body. He has a tremendous easy care coat that has excellent density and texture. He currently is a little rough in condition and coat because he is coming off of a molt. I am going to be sorry to see this guy go. He is such a sweet rabbit. He also has incredible rabbits in his pedigree including 3Bears Gopher, 3Bears Seal the Deal, 3Bears Smoke and Mirrors (Smokey), CRs White on Rice, AFB's Panda Bear and EMR's Tear Jerker. He is a proven buck and passes his big head and solid body to his offspring. He carries REW.

I am very pleased to say that this is my Golden Fleece Auction rabbit for this year! She is one that I would 100% keep in my own herd! Her sire is a full brother to AFB's Panda Bear. She has a great head, her ears are nice and thick and well rounded at the tips. Her ears could be held closer together, but not terrible. She is very very wide, good roundness and depth of body. Good shoulder. Her coat is not the best right now because she was clipped down about a month and a half ago. That is why her coat is a bit patchy right now. She has shown a few times as a junior and did well! Once she took BOB, unfortunately, no leg because there wasn't enough exhibitors; however, there were more than enough rabbits. I think that she will be an amazing addition to any herd.

Havoc is a showy little buck who loves to pose and is so easy to photograph! He has a nice easy care senior coat coming in (please excuse some missing wool cap in his pictures) that has good texture and density. I love his topline, his head mount and his depth. I would like to see more width overall. He was shown quite a bit as a junior and did well, but didn't get shown much this summer as a senior as he still had a soft junior coat. He was second place agouti junior buck at 2023 Jersey Woolly National, and first place agouti junior buck at the After Nationals Specialty. He is not proven, as I did not breed any this summer, but he is bred to several does and will hopefully be proven by Convention.

Mister Tee is a very promising young senior buck. He has good bone, nice full body, wide head and thick, short ears. Tee reminds me of his sire, MB's Spencer (BOSG Agouti 2021 ARBA Convention) at this age. He has been shown 1 time, judges' comments were "very promising, just needs time to mature." Mister Tee is a tough one to give up. He just needs to fill out and get his Sr coat in. Tee is proven, we bred a broken chestnut to him and she has a very promising litter. We plan to breed some more does before he moves on. This handsome boy will be a great addition to anyone's agouti herd.

Cherry Bomb was my pick of the litter. She is a very promising Black Otter doe. She is natural at posing and will hold it longer than most young rabbits. Her head is rounding nicely and has nice width for a doe. I love her ears which are thick and well furred. Her coat (even her baby coat) is easy care and she is developing a really nice shake and show adult coat with good color. Good overall type, but her hindquarters could be a bit fuller. She just needs to continue to mature and "pop"

Chocolate Chip is out of 3Bear's Loverboy who was Best Opposite of Breed at the 2022 Jersey Wooly Nationals. We just started to show him, but he then started to molt. The thing I like about Chocolate Chip is that he is a nice short compact buck with nice shoulders. Maybe the only thing I would change is his ears. They need to have more substance and to be more rounded. This is a rabbit that I wouldn't mind keeping around, but it is an honor to donate him to this year's Golden Fleece Auction.

I was down between 2 otter does for my donation. Both of them would be beneficial to my herd. The other doe carries shaded where this one does not, so I figured this doe would work easier in more herds. I am having a very hard time deciding between my jrs this year! She is out of the buck that I purchased in the GF Auction last year. Booty Judy was named for my love of her HQ. I really appreciate the width. I really like her depth of shoulder and she is super short. She has had an awesome baby coat with very nice length. We have been trying to focus on length of coat in my rabbits. Although there are no points on length, I find a longer coat to be more striking. She has good density with very good texture on a jr coat. She is currently in her uglies, but looks great for being at that stage in her development. I think she will develop out at a little over 3 lbs. A couple things that I don't like about her: her ear set is a little wide. She does carry them very apart when allowed to relax. They have good shape and substance. She has a good curvature to her skull, but can use more width between her eyes. My heads tend to really pop closer to a year old. I would like to see her a tad shorter about her front limb also. She goes back to T2, our chestnut buck that was BOSB at convention in Louisville in 2022. He currently has 40+ legs and still shows strong at 4 years old. He is out of White On Rice, so she may carry REW.

Merrigold is a lovely girl. She has done so well for me on the show table gathering (at least) 9 legs including BOB at larger shows. Though she isn't currently in coat, Mer's coat is fabulous. Great texture and density with very good length. So easy maintenance. Merrigold has a lovely body with a nice top line and rise. She is quite wide and full to the table. She has a beautiful head and her ears are positioned well. I would fault her on slightly thinner ears and she will pinch them. She has been shown quite extensively and successfully on the east coast, but has decided that she likes it less and less. She has less of a presence on the table than she did (more shy), but this does not lessen her value as a brood doe and her overall quality. I am very sad to see her go. I bred her once and she produced a peanut. I have not bred her again due to space, though I had intended to. She has a lovely pedigree including 3Bears, CR (including White on Rice), More's and TAA's Max to name a few.

He is an easy poser who I think will do well on the show table. He is currently molting out his junior coat and starting to grow his senior coat. His baby and junior coats have been super easy care, so I am quite sure that his senior coat will be great. He is very compact and balanced and should only get better with age. Klondike is a beautiful buck with a large mug head, well furred well placed ears and an amazing coat that has great texture, density and is full of life. His topline is super smooth and rounds over his hips to an extremely full hindquarter all the way to the table. He has wonderful width and depth, a deep chest and lovely shoulders. I do wish that his ears were a bit shorter and a bit more rounded on the tips, but not too much shorter or they wouldn't balance with his large head. Klondike has some of our best lines behind him including AFB's Panda Bear. He would absolutely be staying here if I wasn't donating him. Sister is a very nicely balanced doe that I only see getting better with age. She has a nice round body, but I would like to see her be just a bit shorter in the midsection. She has a nice balanced head and ear; her ears are thick and well furred, but could be more open. As for the rest of her body; she has a nice shoulder and a nice full hindquarter down to the table. She has a very smooth body when feeling her over. She is packing a coat on her as well, a nice mix of texture and density...she is the definition of shake and go. Her biggest fault, in my eyes, is her lack of color (she is over 10%), and I would like to see a bolder more mug head.
