She has a nice thick open ear and a bright eye. 3Bears Ann is out of 3Bears Antoinette who has over 20 legs (most of them BOB legs). Antoinette was BOG Self and Best White Wool at the 2023 JW Nationals. Ann's sire is 3Bears Barney who was BOG Tan at the 2023 JW Nationals, BOSG Tan at the 2023 ARBA Convention and the 2nd place Tan SR buck at the 2024 JW Nationals.

I am very proud to introduce my Trio buck AFB's Armani. He has a very good chunky buck head, well placed ears with great furring, though I wish that I could round off the tips a little bit more. He has a strong shoulder and well rounded topline that runs smoothly into his hindquarters. His prior senior coat was very easy care and full of life. He molted recently and is in the process of growing in his new coat. He has enough color, though I would love if he had a bit more on the sides. He is an AFB's Panda Bear grandson and his sire AFB's Brodie was 3rd place broken SR buck in Open at convention last year. He would be a great asset to most herds and I am excited to see what he does for his new owner. We recently bred him for the 1st time, so hopefully he will be proven by convention.

Last year, I bought Dave Arnold's GFA donation, Wool-F Pack's TONKA, a Siamese sable buck. I bought Tonka on a whim because of his presence and I had not had shadeds in over 10 years! I am proud to offer a Tonka son to the 2024 GFA. Tonka is a Reg. GC (5 legs). I bred him to my REW doe, Reg GC Kathy's Bonnie TX (7 legs), producing an exceptional litter of four, with two Siamese sable sons. The sons grew two junior coats. The photo of Garfield is in June just before I shaved him down. He is currently growing a senior coat that I know will be a show stopper with correct density and guard hairs. Garfield has recently been registered. He is fed ROWE feed and supplemented with CirQLate. I purposely kept Garfield inside a/c during the summer to prevent "burnt streaking". He has his sire's wide head, thick ears and muscular body. He is not proven, but will be bred to REW aunts before convention. Garfield might carry "blue" from his dam's side. I consider Garfield the best of the litter and I expect him to make a GIANT contribution to someone's herd just as his sire, Tonka, has done here at B*B Rabbitry in South Texas. ALL monies from his sale will go to the Youth Scholarship Fund.

If I could change anything, I would like to add a bit more fullness in her hindquarters. Belle's dam, Medo's SM Bella, was the 3rd place Shaded SR doe at the 2023 ARBA Convention. W327 is a broken blue silver marten. He is a little over a year old & weighs a little under 3lbs. This buck goes back to Billy Miller's White on Rice. Unfortunately, I am very buck heavy & he is a dilute, which I try to stay away from. He has a very limited show career, been more of a "bottom dweller", I only just started showing him over the summer. He took BOB at our state fair, but there weren't enough exhibitors for a leg. While he was at the fair, his sister was taking RIS out of state at a different show. 327 has been getting good comments, but no big wins yet. He has a really good depth of shoulder and good roundness of body. I wouldn't mind a little more width to balance with the depth that he has, but that tends to be more the type that I raise. I like the balance of coat that he has coming in with good guard hair. This is the first real coat that I've gotten him to come into. 327 has a very nice ear. I love the openness, substance and furring of his ear. He has a great curvature of the skull. To get picky, he could benefit from a little more width of head compared to some of my other bucks. The biggest issue with this buck is that he is light in pattern. He has all the head markings, including a full butterfly, a spot on each side and a spot over his hip. He has not been disqualified for me, but that would definitely be a judgement call. I have not used him a lot for breeding, but he has thrown heavier patterns than he has with the does that he has been paired with.

Barbie's Dawn is a very promising young REW doe. She is wide with good depth and full hindquarters. She has a well fitted, easy care wool coat with excellent density and texture and she presents a balanced profile. I would like to see a bolder head, but she has a pretty head with well placed, thick, round ears. Her sire and dam's lines have been great producers for me, and Dawn will be a nice addition to any program

WOOL-F-PACK's TINK is a flashy little sable doe. A short bodied, strong shouldered doe with a good rise and plenty of width, out over her loin and hindquarters and finishes to the table. Overall very well balanced and complete. She is a young senior definitely maturing into herself. She's got great texture and her density is coming as she continues to mature. It is a shake and show kind of coat. Tink has a beautiful head and ears with the medium high headset. She's got a great look and a great feel. She could easily be added to a show string and I very much hope that she does.

Hello! I would like to introduce my 2024 Golden Fleece Auction Rabbit, say hello to Higher Expectation's Ripley aka "Rip". Ripley has always been special! At the 2023 ARBA convention, he won 1st place Broken Jr Buck, there were 9 in the class. His coat is just starting to come back in and it's going to be really nice! Great density and texture! He has an absolutely amazing head and ear to top him off. He would be a fantastic addition to anyone's herd! I can't wait to see what this guy will do!

I am very proud to introduce AFB's Vincent. Vincent has an amazing buck head already and I am sure that it will only get better as he matures. I love his ears, but would love to round the tips a bit if I could. He had a super easy care Jr coat that he molted out recently. Vincent is in the process of growing in his Sr coat. If it is anything like his Jr coat, it will be very nice. He has a very strong wide shoulder that rounds nicely to a full smooth hindquarter. If it wasn't for the GFA, he never would be leaving here. He is part of a very special litter and it was hard for me to decide to sell him, but I am keeping 3 of his brothers and his sister. Plus, I am going to repeat this breeding very soon. His sire AFB's Panda Bear won Youth BOB at convention last year and then went on to win Group 4 on the BIS table. I am hoping that Vincent carries on his dad's winning ways and produces amazing offspring for his new owner.

He has nice wide shoulders with fullness that follows through to wide hindquarters that are full to the table. I would like to see a little more depth of chest on him. His head is round with well placed short ears. Width of brow is looking better as he matures, and would like to see a rounder tip of ear. I'm just really picky about ears. LOL His coat is an easy to care for coat that has density, texture, and dense blue point color. OP47 has had a great show career for 2023 with multiple Best of Group and Best Opposite of Group wins.

I knew I was going to like this doe when her head popped at 10 weeks old. Her dad was 3rd at the 2023 Convention as a junior. Her mother won Best of Breed at every show she was entered in, but sadly at some of the shows she went to, there weren't enough breeders for her to earn a leg. Joy is a well balanced rabbit with good eye appeal. Her body is short and compact. I do think that she could use a little more fullness in her hindquarters. I believe she will have an amazing show career ahead of her and I think she will only get better from here. At the shows I've already taken her to, all of the judges have said that she has a great future and will be a real contender when she gets older. Sadly, she is out of coat right now because she is beginning to transition to her senior coat. I LOVE this girl's head and ear, she has very good width to her head and good thickness to her ears. I do wish that she held her ears together instead of holding them away from each other, but she does have good ear placement.

TM's TNT has been a favorite of mine since she was in the nest box. This broken siamese sable doe has 4 legs and is proven. Her last litter was a peanut singleton in June. TNT is just finishing up her molt. Her coat looks choppy in her pictures, but should be finished by convention. This is a big beautiful doe who carries great wool. I would like to open up her ear base and give her some more cover at her pin bones. This doe thinks of herself as a princess. LOL She is also a very easy keeper. TNT is hard to let go. Her sire was 4th place broken senior buck at the 2021 ARBA convention.

Ghostbuster is a solid buck with good type and his wool as a Jr has been easy care. His incoming Sr coat is going to be really nice too. He showed as a Junior at the Cowboys vs Cajuns show (ARBA show) in Longview, TX on Aug 30-31, 2024 and he was the 1st place Jr Self buck in all 3 shows and received great comments from all 3 judges. Everyone who posed him, loved him. I ended up with 2 very similar REW bucks out of litters in the spring and decided to donate the buck that showed the best and Ghostbuster shined across the board. The only things I would like to see improved for him are: I wish his ears were a little more rounded and his shoulder a little stronger. Both parents have really nice heads and ears, so his head should pop as he matures more. Ghostbuster may carry non-extension and might genetically be a broken. He is either self-based or tan carrying self. He would be a great herd buck for any breeding program needing non-extension.

Blackie was one of our first homegrown keepers. William's line originated from April Sefcik, who helped him with his starter herd. Although Blackie is a self chin, she has correct brown eyes and a few group wins under her belt. She was slow to take to motherhood, but made up for lost time recently raising a litter of 6, which we have retained a replacement doe. She carries REW, so could be used in any agouti, chin or self program (aaBbCcD_EE). She also throws dilutes. Will wishes that she had finished molting before her photo shoot. She has a deep, round body, but could use rounder ears. Her coat is carefree even during motherhood. Her sire is our main chin herd buck, and her mother was a great size control doe and helped carry William to his current sweeps standings and Herdsman points. Both parents are registered and granded with several BOB & BOG wins.

Color, I love a black that is jet black and she is. I took it as a personal win when she was 4th place Self SR doe at last year's convention and the highest placing colored self in the class. I can't stand stray white hairs, lol. Her mother is a REW and her father is Bluestar's Bruno, who is now owned by Jake Knisley of Ohio. He was BOSG Self at Nationals in Minnesota in 2021. I like her overall balance; she is very short and deep. She is proven and her last litter was April 2024. Valerian has an amazing head that stays wide all the way through, a great wool cap and great thick ears to balance. He has solid shoulders that round down into well-filled hindquarters. Valerian's wool is great with good texture, good density and ok length throughout. Valerian's main weakness is his short front legs. His front legs are shorter in balance to his back legs, so it is more comfortable for him to pose down more on the table which creates an illusion of a long body. If you get him to pose correctly, he will stay for about 30 seconds and his body becomes much better although he could use a bit more fullness in the midsection. I bred Valerian to 2 of my does, so hopefully he will be proven before convention. Valerian's mom has a few legs, but his dad passed away from unknown causes before I could show him. Valerian is a very sweet boy, and he loves pets and cuddles.
