Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world.

John the Baptist was the forerunner of Christ. He prepared the people for the coming of Christ. He was at river Jordan baptising people. When he saw Christ coming toward him, he presented him to the people saying: "Behold the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world." John saw Christ as the Lamb to be sacrificed for the benefits of humanity. He saw Christ as one who was to die for the salvation of mankind.

Jesus Christ came into the world for a specific mission: to free the world from the slavery of sin. He did this by taking upon himself our sins. This explains the reason why Christ accepted to be baptised. He took our sins to river Jordan and there washed them away. As God he had no sin of his own, neither did he inherit the original sin. The sins he took to river Jordan were ours. The sins for which he was crucified on the cross of Calvary were our sins. Is 54:3 says, "ours were the infirmities that he bore..." in 2Cor. 5:21, St. Paul said "He who knew no sin was made a sinner that we may become the righteousness of God." John the Baptist knew this and that's why he addressed him as the Lamb of God who takes away the sins of the world.

Jesus baptism and his death on the cross brought us freedom from sins and Satan. St. Paul said in the second reading of today, that "we have been sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be holy." He therefore urges us to live in freedom; to keep away from sinful behaviours and to love God. When we were baptised, the spirit of God descended upon us as he descended upon Christ. And we made a promise to reject Satan and all his empty promises, and to love God and keep his commandments. Let us keep to this promise. Sin is failure to love God. A sinner tells God "I don't love you, I don't need your company, go your way".

Satan is the brain behind every sin. He tempts us constantly and his intention is to destroy us. We must always resist him. St. Peter said "Be strong and resist the devil." The devil comes through the mind, thoughts. He always tries to convince us to do bad. He is a very clever being. Don't give him an opportunity in your life.

The Psalmist of today said "Here am I Lord, I come to do your will." To do God's will is to keep his commandments, to do things pleasing to him. Doing God's will should be our delight and our pleasure. That's what it means to be a true child of God.

If, however you make a mistake and fail to do God's will, go back to the Lamb of God who takes away our sins through the sacrament of reconciliation. In confessing our sins Jesus the Lamb of God forgives us and cleanses us. The sacrament of reconciliation is a healing sacrament. It heals us from the wounds inflicted upon our hearts by sins. Jesus the Lamb of God is merciful and compassionate. He knows how weak and how vulnerable we are. He forgives us whenever we come to him in repentance.

Here I am Lord, I come to do your will. Perhaps you being called in 2023 to enrich your marriage relationship?
