

FCA Licensing Guide™

The Fossorial Capability Architecture™

Version 1.0 | June 2026

Purpose

The Fossorial Capability Architecture™ (FCA) is licensed institutional intellectual property.

This Licensing Guide provides a concise overview of available licensing categories, permitted uses, restrictions, and procurement classification.

FCA is not sold as a service, consulting engagement, training program, software platform, assessment system, or implementation methodology.

Organizations obtain licensed usage rights to the doctrine through a formal licensing agreement.

The Licensed Asset

An FCA license provides access to the Fossorial Capability Architecture™, including applicable doctrine materials and associated intellectual property as defined within the executed license agreement.

The doctrine consists of:

- Written institutional doctrine
- Conceptual architecture
- Operational language
- Structural models
- Analytical frameworks
- Associated doctrine documents and materials

All intellectual property remains the exclusive property of The Fossorial Co.

No ownership rights are transferred.

Licensing Philosophy

The Fossorial Capability Architecture™ is licensed as institutional doctrine rather than sold as a static informational product.

Licensing supports:

- Doctrine stewardship
- Version control
- Architecture refinement
- Terminology evolution
- Future doctrinal development
- Authorized organizational usage

Organizations receive rights to use the doctrine within the scope defined by their licensing category.

Licensing Categories

Internal Organizational License™

Intended Use

For organizations seeking internal access to the FCA doctrine for leadership, strategic, operational, or institutional use.

Permitted Uses

- Internal leadership review
- Internal organizational discussion
- Internal strategic reference
- Internal institutional application

- Internal dissemination within the licensed entity

Prohibited Uses

- Client-facing use
- Resale
- Redistribution outside the licensed entity
- Public publication
- Sub-licensing
- Derivative commercial products

Typical Users

- Founder-led firms
 - Operating companies
 - Leadership teams
 - Professional organizations
 - Public-sector institutions
-

Partner Doctrine License™

Intended Use

For advisory, consulting, professional services, and external-facing organizations seeking authorized use of FCA within client environments.

Permitted Uses

- Internal organizational use
- Client-facing conceptual reference
- Incorporation into advisory discussions
- Internal methodology support
- Educational discussion within client engagements

Prohibited Uses

- Sale of FCA as proprietary ownership
- Unauthorized redistribution
- Repackaging as original intellectual property
- Sub-licensing
- Doctrine resale

Typical Users

- Consulting firms
 - Advisory firms
 - Fractional executive practices
 - Strategic operators
 - Leadership infrastructure organizations
-

Enterprise Institutional License™

Intended Use

For larger organizations requiring broader institutional deployment rights.

Permitted Uses

- Internal dissemination across multiple business units
- Internal leadership development environments
- Internal institutional application
- Cross-functional organizational use

Prohibited Uses

- External redistribution
- Commercial resale
- Unauthorized publication
- Sub-licensing

Typical Users

- Enterprise organizations
 - Multi-division institutions
 - Complex operating environments
 - Large-scale organizational systems
-

Academic Institutional License™

Intended Use

For approved executive education, research, and academic environments.

Permitted Uses

- Classroom discussion
- Faculty reference
- Executive education use
- Institutional research
- Academic analysis

Prohibited Uses

- Public redistribution
- Commercial resale
- Derivative commercialization
- Sub-licensing

Typical Users

- Executive education programs
- Leadership institutes
- Academic research environments
- Institutional studies programs

Academic licensing is available only through direct approval by The Fossorial Co.

What FCA Is

FCA is:

- Licensed institutional doctrine
- Conceptual architecture
- Organizational language system
- Analytical framework
- Intellectual property

What FCA Is Not

An FCA license does not include:

- Consulting
- Advisory services
- Assessments
- Audits
- Organizational evaluations
- Implementation support
- Workshops
- Training programs
- Coaching
- Software
- Toolkits
- Performance metrics
- Ongoing deliverables

Unless explicitly stated in writing, no professional services are provided.

Procurement Classification

Procurement Classification

Licensed institutional intellectual property consisting of written doctrine, conceptual architecture, analytical frameworks, and organizational language systems.

Not classified as:

- Consulting services
- Professional services
- Advisory services
- Software
- Training
- Coaching
- Organizational development services
- Managed services

License Term

Licenses are issued on a recurring annual basis unless otherwise specified in the executed licensing agreement.

Licensing provides authorized usage rights to the current FCA doctrine version and applicable future doctrine revisions released during the active license period.

All usage rights terminate upon expiration or termination of the license unless otherwise specified.

Doctrine Stewardship and Versioning

The Fossorial Capability Architecture™ is maintained as a living institutional doctrine.

From time to time, The Fossorial Co. may issue:

- Terminology refinements
- Structural clarifications
- Architecture updates
- Additional doctrine materials
- New doctrine versions

Active licensees may receive access to applicable revisions as defined by their licensing agreement.

Direct License Issuance

Organizations may obtain an FCA license through direct issuance.

Participation in preliminary discussions is not required.

Optional pre-licensing interactions may include:

Executive Briefing™

A concise orientation to the architecture and doctrine.

Institutional Application Session™

A discussion regarding intended organizational use and licensing alignment.

Neither session constitutes consulting, advisory services, assessment activity, or implementation support.

Intellectual Property Notice

The Fossorial Capability Architecture™, FCA™, Executive Briefing™, Institutional Application Session™, Internal Organizational License™, Partner Doctrine License™, Enterprise Institutional License™, and Academic Institutional License™ are proprietary intellectual property and trademarks of The Fossorial Co.

All rights not expressly granted remain reserved by The Fossorial Co.

Closing Statement

The Fossorial Capability Architecture™ is intended for organizations seeking a structured institutional doctrine for understanding capability preservation, capability degradation, operational coherence, visibility integrity, dependency concentration, and organizational resilience under complexity, uncertainty, and constraint.

The Fossorial Co.

Licensed Institutional Doctrine for Capability Preservation, Operational Coherence, and Organizational Resilience