

ZEKE

(stunned)
Oh. Uhm, okay, I guess.

SHARPAY

(dismissing him)
Bye.

ZEKE

(echoes her, forlornly)
Bye.

(ZEKE exits, dejected.)

SHARPAY

Start.
(to FULTON)
I asked you to hire Troy Bolton, not the entire East High student body!

FULTON

Mr. Bolton was most persuasive... something about working together, playing together.

SHARPAY

Yeah, yeah, yeah, we're all in this together – that's all he ever says!

FULTON

You did say by any means necessary.

SHARPAY

I don't care what I said – I want you to fire them. Especially that Montez hag.

FULTON

This is a business, Miss Evans, not your personal playpen. I can't legally fire them without just cause.

SHARPAY

(like a spoiled brat)
You said my daddy said my wish is your command!

FULTON

(showing infinite patience)

Well, I suppose I could try to make the job a smidge more difficult than usual.

SHARPAY

(having a temper tantrum)

I don't care what you do – just get rid of them!!!

FULTON

Ah, the first tantrum of the summer. So nice to have you back.

(FULTON leaves, mumbling to himself.)

Stop.

RYAN

What happened to the new, improved Sharpay? The one who loves everyone?

SHARPAY

I fired her. The old Sharpay knows what she wants and gets what she wants. Is that a problem?

RYAN

I guess that depends on what she wants. Sparkle!

(RYAN exits, leaving SHARPAY to ponder.)

SCENE 3: KITCHEN – 14.3 MINUTES LATER

(TROY and the WILDCATS, dressed in their new uniforms, laugh and cavort as they enter the kitchen. MARTHA COX busts some hip-hop dance moves as the WILDCATS cheer her on.)

DID YOU KNOW?

"Humuhumunukunukuapua'a" was originally cut from the movie when it aired on The Disney Channel, but it was restored for the Extended Edition DVD.