ARTIST STATEMENT

I am an Oakland-based artist working primarily in photography and digital media. For Built Different, I photograph the city and then cut the images apart, both physically and digitally. I crop, flip, stack, and reassemble sections into new compositions. Windows become grids. Fences turn into stripes. Flat walls start to feel dimensional. What began as documentation shifts into construction.

Growing up in the Bay Area, I've watched neighborhoods change over time. Buildings go up, get tagged, get painted over, get boarded up, get torn down. I'm drawn to that cycle—the temporary nature of what looks permanent. My work reflects that process of building, breaking, and reconstructing. I remain attentive to how human activity alters the environment and how we mark, repair, and erode our surroundings. In reconfiguring these fragments, I explore how we navigate everyday spaces and how our environment shapes our perception. The resulting works are not records of place, but reimagined urban patterns assembled from the details of daily life.

“Tear stuff apart, put it back together, seek beauty.” -Mac Premo

ARTIST BIO

Gina Gaiser is an Oakland-based artist working primarily in photography and digital media. Her practice is rooted in experimentation, with technology functioning as an active collaborator in the development of each image. She photographs Oakland daily, drawn to the overlooked details of the urban environment and the ways human intervention reshapes landscape and space. Gaiser earned her BA in Studio Art from the University of California, Santa Cruz, and studied printmaking and art history at Il Bisonte in Florence, Italy. She later received an MFA in Digital Media, Video, and Sculpture from Mills College. Gaiser co-founded the artist collective Ben Dunne Presents, was a Member Artist at GearBox Gallery, and currently works at Compound Art Studios in Emeryville while serving as a partner at Manna Gallery in Oakland.
