Congressman Danny K. Davis Endorses Stephanie Kifowit for Illinois Comptroller

Chicago, IL - Last week Congressman Danny K. Davis, one of Illinois' longest-serving and most respected public servants, has endorsed State Representative Stephanie Kifowit in the Democratic Primary.

"Representative Kifowit has a long history of involvement. She has been a member of the United States Armed Forces, serving to protect the freedom of her country," stated Congressman Davis. "I have looked at her record as a legislator. I have interacted, inquired of her platform, of her intent. And so at this moment I am pleased to announce I am endorsing and supporting Stephanie Kifowit to become the next Comptroller of the State of Illinois".

Kifowit welcomed the endorsement, calling it both meaningful and deeply personal.

"I am proud and deeply honored to share that long-time public servant Congressman Danny K. Davis has endorsed my candidacy and supports my vision for a Comptroller's office that embraces diversity and inclusion," Kifowit said.

For decades, Congressman Davis has been recognized as a steady voice for fiscal responsibility, government accountability, and working families. His support underscores the shared values that have defined Kifowit's career in public service; first as an Alderman for the City of Aurora and now as a State Representative, where she has built a reputation for independence, transparency, and integrity in government.

Kifowit emphasized that the endorsement strengthens her commitment to serve as a strong fiscal watchdog for the state.

"His endorsement and faith in me will always guide my commitment to work for everyday people by making sure taxpayer dollars are managed wisely and that the voices of hardworking families are heard in Springfield," Kifowit said. "I have the experience, discipline, and heart to continue to be the watchdog for Illinois taxpayers."
