Can you get life insurance with a pre-existing condition?

More than one in four (27%) of American adults under the age of 65 currently live with a pre-existing health condition. Living with a chronic health issue often means adjusting to a new normal, but one thing that doesn't have to change is your ability to qualify for life insurance.

RLG offers a wide range of life insurance policies, including plans for those with less-than-perfect health. Learn more about your options and how to get covered.
