There are different ways in which people unknowingly control each other...to be aware and enlightened...

“Emotions & Religion” Crucial to understand your emotions...the way: first accept you have the emotion, see what the situation it will bring after you follow through with the emotion and will it make you happy in the future with your action, then let the feeling guide you...

Being “extra nice or too helpful” thereby, not genuine. These are ways in which people hope they can have others do their bidding but you should always know you have the ability and right to say No...as it's just another form of mental game...So, to thank for the help but know you need none as you have been created able enough to help yourself...

“Money” so they feel they have influence and authority over you...Never the greed for it...Enjoy the simple things in life...and money will come at the appropriate time to let you enjoy it to the fullest...Give & share and it will come to you in abundance...as it likes to be loved too...

“Dependency” so as to give you everything you need and keep others dependent...Thereby, instilling the fear that if they leave you, you shall be helpless...You should know you are capable of being independent...

“Physically” in any form, forceful with chains & pains or sexual with pleasure so as to capture your body so you will be in their servitude...This is difficult to break but if the will is strong & not given, then chains & pains have no might...while the lust should never be allowed to be an addiction but only a way to bond in love...

“Happiness” of yours in the hands of others and giving another the feeling they can take away your happiness...A true free spirit knows that their happiness lies in them and cannot be taken away...

“Promises & lies” to keep people to do things for them by giving them hope in their future...So promises shouldn't be asked for or neither given...Past is an experience to remember, Future is a lesson to be learnt while only NOW exist... Actions speak louder than words...

“Saying they are speaking the word of God”...Listen inside you and follow your feelings...

“Making you feeling good” people can make each other feel nice by jokes and repartee. See the intent of the man/woman if he/she is using it to play on the feelings of a girl/boy or fun loving. Thereby, it's essential a woman/man listens to her/his intuition...

“Love” for one's own benefit or not letting the other person grow to their full potential...Love's true existence is when it lays down no control but gives you freedom...

Finally, everything is in your hands as no one can control or manipulate you without your consent...

Love: True and selfless...
