For Immediate Media Release

Saint Gallen, Switzerland – Washington D.C., The United States of America

The Institute for Academic Management (IAM) Ltd., is pleased to inform you that Professor Garry Hornby will be joining us in the capacity of a Keynote Speaker and Workshop Leader for the Inaugural IAM-USA Dual Education Symposium, scheduled for March 25th-28th, 2020 at the Trump National Doral, in Miami, Florida USA.

Garry has worked as a mainstream and special education teacher and as an educational psychologist before lecturing on special education, educational psychology and counselling at two teachers' colleges and four universities, in England, Barbados and New Zealand. For part of his time as a teacher he worked in a special class within a secondary school where he successfully implemented dual education with young people with intellectual disabilities.

As an educational psychologist he has been assessing children's learning difficulties and needs for the past 40 years. He has established post-graduate training programs for teachers of children with special needs and disabilities in England, Barbados and New Zealand. He has also acted as a consultant on education to the government of Barbados.

He has published over 150 journal articles and book chapters, and thirteen books in the field of education, the most recent being on 'Parental involvement in childhood education (2011)' and 'Inclusive special education (2014)', both published by Springer in New York, with a forthcoming book for Springer 'Essential Evidence-Based Teaching Strategies', due in 2020. Garry is a chartered educational and counseling psychologist and Fellow of the British Psychological Society. He is Professor Emeritus at the University of Plymouth and now lives in Barbados

Thank you, Professor Hornby, the Institute for Academic Management is both honored and privileged to share this experience with you.

Sincerely,

Dr. Myrtle P. Alexander – Founder & CEO
