

• • 2026

• • NARCH SUMMER • • INTERNSHIP

The Fort Belknap Indian Community in partnership with Johns Hopkins School of Nursing is recruiting two paid Summer Interns to assist in the Data sovereignty and Data AI projects for the Fort Belknap NARCH (Native American Research Center for Health) grant. Interns get the opportunity to work on these projects to address local health needs through community based approaches.

JOHNS HOPKINS
SCHOOL of NURSING

Projects may include:

- Possible projects include
- Data management and evaluation
- Data science and Artificial Intelligence
- Data sovereignty

Must be:

- Current college / undergraduate student or recent graduate
- Interest in research
- Knowledge of Tribal culture and community preferred
- Based at Fort Belknap, MT.
- Proficiency in computer applications including Microsoft Office, Zoom, SharePoint.

Details:

- 2 paid internships
- Tentative position duration: June 22-August 14, 2026 (dates subject to change)
- Application deadline: June 7, 2026

APPLY BY JUNE 7!

Apply today by sending your Resume and Cover Letter to the emails below:

mkazemi2@jhmi.edu

dkillea1@jhmi.edu

Feel free to reach out with questions!