

Who we are:

We are a family owned Yarn Store and Collaborative Gift Store specializing in using our gifts to help create gifts for others. We love bringing quality hand crafted items together into one easy to shop store for our customers. We started our own Fiber Arts Shop through craft shows, demos at fairs and various on-line ventures before making the investment in opening a brick and mortar shop. As a result we understand the nature of selling hand crafted goods and the challenges that come with it.

We are driven by our love of bringing people together. As customers we seek out quality craftsmanship in everything we buy. We are willing to pay for quality product that is made to be something special, something that will last. Our target customers are people just like us, people willing to support local business and pay a little more upfront for a product that will make an impact in their lives and last a lifetime. Our frustration as a customer is that finding the people who have the gift of creativity and skill to make these products is difficult.

We want to change that.

Our goal with The Colored Coat is to provide Artisans who hand make quality products with an outlet for their wares that is consistently available to the public. We hope that through the colored coat we can help to grow your brand by widening your customer base and by offering customers a reliable location to find your products. We hope that we can use our gift of bringing people together to help you utilize your gift of creativity and skill and together offer our community quality gifts for their homes and families.
