Bologna, November 27, 2023 — In a celebration of environmental consciousness and cinematic excellence, the groundbreaking documentary "Zero Waste" has clinched the prestigious Green Award at the 4th Terraviva Film Festival held in Bologna, Italy.

The festival, known for showcasing films that inspire positive change and promote environmental sustainability, recognized "Zero Waste" for its compelling storytelling, impactful messaging, and dedication to highlighting the urgent need for waste reduction and a sustainable future.

Directed by Danny Kim, "Zero Waste" takes audiences on a transformative journey, exploring innovative solutions to combat the global waste crisis. Through captivating narratives and striking visuals, the documentary sheds light on individuals, communities, and organizations championing the zero-waste movement, urging viewers to rethink their consumption habits and adopt eco-friendly practices.

The Green Award, presented at the heart of Bologna, a city synonymous with cultural richness and environmental awareness, symbolizes a significant milestone for the creators of "Zero Waste." The film stood out among a diverse array of submissions, impressing the festival jury with its ability to inspire and mobilize audiences towards positive environmental action.

"We are thrilled and honored to receive the Green Award at the Terraviva Film Festival. This recognition is a testament to the collective efforts of our dedicated team and the countless individuals around the world working towards a zero-waste future," said Danny Kim expressing gratitude for the acknowledgment.

The Terraviva Film Festival, with its commitment to fostering environmental awareness through the power of storytelling, provides a platform for filmmakers to share stories that resonate with global audiences. The Green Award acknowledges films that demonstrate a commitment to sustainability, eco-conscious practices, and inspire viewers to engage in meaningful environmental conversations.

"Zero Waste" aligns with the festival's mission, encouraging viewers to reflect on their ecological footprint and empowering them to make informed choices that contribute to a healthier planet. The film's success at the Terraviva Film Festival reinforces its impact in fostering a sense of responsibility and collective action towards a more sustainable world.

As "Zero Waste" continues to make waves on the international stage, winning the Green Award at the 4th Terraviva Film Festival serves as a beacon of hope, inspiring individuals and communities to embrace a zero-waste lifestyle and work towards a harmonious coexistence with the planet.
