

50/50 Fund Raising Raffle For Callum

Meet Callum - the sweetest little fella you'll ever meet. He is the son of two of the most amazing people, Emma and Bronson Pompilio, who have shown unwavering strength and love through the most unimaginable circumstances.

Bronson and Emma went through numerous IVF procedures and suffered some devastating losses along the way. These first-time parents were ecstatic to bring their baby to term and start the next chapter in their lives with their sweet baby.

Callum was born in heart failure due to unexpected complications. He was immediately put on ECMO and lived with the support of a Berlin Heart - an external mechanical heart that pumps for him - while he waited for a heart transplant. It is a complex device, but for Callum, it's a lifeline - a bridge to the next chapter in his story.

Callum and his parents spent 7 months inpatient at The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, where they remained until he received his gift of life. His parents completely uprooted their lives to be by his side - Mom living in Philly full-time, while Dad traveled from Baltimore every weekend to be with his family. On August 5th, which will forever be our family's favorite day, Callum received the incredible gift of a new heart. Callum was just released and for the first time in his short life, his parents got to bring him home and begin the next journey of caring for their beautiful baby.

This Fund Raiser has been created to help ease the significant financial burden that comes with extended hospitalization, travel, temporary relocation, lost income and ongoing care. Your donation will go directly toward supporting Callum's care and allowing his parents to remain present and focused on what matters most - Callum's healing and well-being.

No amount is too small, and every bit of support means the world to this family. From the bottom of our hearts, thank you for being part of Callum's journey. Your kindness, love, and generosity are deeply appreciated.

The Pompilio & Magmer Family
