Many car dealerships tell us these are their challenges with car buyers spurred by inflation

Shrinking Pool of Qualified Buyers

- Inflation has drastically impacted affordability for many potential car buyers. Increased costs of living, rising interest rates, and stagnant wages mean fewer people can afford the higher car prices. Dealerships are facing a smaller pool of potential buyers who meet their financing criteria.

Shifting Consumer Preferences

- Inflation has caused buyers to become more price-sensitive. Many are now looking for more affordable options like used cars, or are delaying purchases altogether. Dealerships need to adjust their marketing and sales strategies to appeal to these changing needs and preferences.

Increased Competition

- While the pool of qualified buyers shrinks, competition from other dealerships and alternative transportation options (like ride-sharing) intensifies. Dealerships need to offer competitive pricing, financing options, and value-added services to stand out in a crowded market.

Many Service Department Managers tell us these are their challenges

Too busy, but need to hire good technicians

- Need more technicians? We find them FAST. We create video ads on social media and search engines that generate qualified leads in your area.
- Flexible service, pause when you're booked in the Service Department and restart when you need more clients for your mechanics. We adjust strategy over to Sales when the Service Department is full.

Open service bays, and need more repair jobs

- We'll generate entry-level jobs for your new trainee, and more complex jobs for your experienced mechanics.
- We generate engine, transmission, and collision leads FAST, targeting the exact audience you need.
- We'll quality control the leads we generate by optimizing your ads accordingly.

Need more high-ticket repair jobs, and less small jobs like oil changes

- Imagine having high-ticket jobs ready to go the moment a car leaves your shop.
- Grow your business and keep all your locations successful with our proven lead generation system.
