

Yesterday's Sun

Background: Sometimes you lose people before you lose them. You can only look back and wonder if you could have done something different.

Verse

It's been so many years
Am I supposed to forget?
I'm not one to flaunt tears
But I am prone to regret
I can't wash away these fears
While predisposed to idle threats

Yet we wake up and sometimes
It feels like we're still in a dream
The kind where you open wide
But can't hear yourself scream
As if your spirit still swims in me
And drowns in my bloodstream

Chorus

Seems like yesterday
Your spirit rose
With the morning sun
Seems like yesterday
Your demons closed
And then you were gone
Now it's just memories
That set like yesterday's sun
Fading memories
Like yesterday's sun

Verse

Life breathes fire at you
Glares at you in contempt
Rife with sheer desire you
Succumb to what tempts
Can't hold back and you
Die with every failed attempt

The riptide pulls you out
Life's sea can be so mean
Every step forward hurts
Then you regress back to the mean
There's no need to apologize
Contrition seems so obscene

Chorus

Seems like yesterday
Your spirit rose
With the morning sun
Seems like yesterday
Your demons closed
And then you were gone
Now it's just memories
Fading memories

Chorus

Seems like yesterday
Your spirit rose
With the morning sun
Seems like yesterday
Your demons closed
And then you were gone
Fading memories

Yeah fading memories

Fading memories
