LAST WILL

We, the seniors of 1952, year of our Lord, being of sound mind and body, do hereby declare this to be our last will and testament, thereby revoking all those previously made by us.

I, RUSSELL BURROUGHS, will and bequeath my agriculture book to anyone who is dumb enough to take it next year.

I, SUSANNA BURROUGHS, will and bequeath my ability to get and "wear" a diamond to Margie Dunlap.

I, JERRY CARPENTER, will and bequeath my beautiful blond curly hair to John Stephenson.

I, ROSEMARY CASTLEMAN, will and bequeath my ability to get someone working for Uncle Sam to Violet O-neal.

I, ALLAN DENNIE, will and bequeath what is left of me to anyone who hasn't much left either.

I, NORMA FANNING, will and bequeath my laugh and my collection of jokes to Keith Fraker. (Anything to get rid of them.)

I, FLOYD FERGUSON, will and bequeath my civics book to anyone who is dumb enough to take it.

I, LOIS FRAKER, will and bequeath my diet to Nancy Hall. Not that she needs it, of course.

I, MAX HAGAN, will and bequeath my ability to be told to turn around in civics to anyone who is dumb enough to listen.

I, CHARLES HARLEY, will and bequeath my carved-up desk to any junior who has to sit in it next year.

I, STAN HOOKER, just leave.

I, MARIAM KELLEY, will and bequeath what is left of my typing eraser to anyone who makes as many mistakes as I do in typing.

I, JANET KESLER, will and bequeath my ability to get a boy's class ring to Sue Kring.

I, BOB LA TURNER, will and bequeath my ability to hit trees to Tarzan.

I, KAY LAW, will and bequeath my height to Sharon Ritter.

I, MARCIA ANN LLOYD, will and bequeath my singing voice to all future members of the chorus.

I, BEVERLY LONGSTRETH, will and bequeath my kid sister, Helen, to anyone who is brave enough to take her.

I, DON MAHONEY, will and bequeath my ability to argue with our teachers to anyone who needs more time to finish school work.

I, NADINE MOWISER, will and bequeath my dark brown hair to Carol Romig.

I, PAT O'DELL, will and bequeath my six extra credits to my brother.

I, MARY LOUISE PEABODY, will and bequeath my ability to get along with Miss Mottley to Jayne Sheller.

I, MARY LOU PERSHING, will and bequeath my ability to cook in freshmen home ec. (or was it luck?) to Martha Zink who had to help eat it.

I, JULIA RICHARDS, will and bequeath my excellent grades in civics to any future basketball player who might need them.

I, VERNON ROHRER, will and bequeath my ability to grow big ears to Jim Herrin.

I, WILMA ROSENTERER, will and bequeath my 8 1/2 size shoe to Marilyn Chapman.

I, MILLICENT SHAFFER, will and bequeath my size four shoe to anyone who can get into it.

I, GERALD SHOEMAKER, will and bequeath my black curly hair to Jarrell Hagan.

I, DON SLANE, will and bequeath my ability to play a sousaphone to Warren Davis.

I, GERALDINE SMITH, will and bequeath my ability to get along in civics to anyone who is a Democrat.

I, JIM THOMPSON, will and bequeath my basketball suit to anyone who can get into it.

I, JUANITA WALLACE, will and bequeath my ability to get along in the 5th period to Rita Archambeault. She needs it.

WE, the seniors of '52 will and bequeath our worries of raising money for a senior trip to the juniors.

To the sophomores we will our ability to put on an excellent prom. That is if they will use the club house.

To the freshmen, we will our perpetual supply of comic books. That is the surest way of getting an education. (Wrong kind.)

To the junior high we leave our worn-out shoes from walking over the hard road to Senior graduation.

To Mr. Van Der Weele, we leave our promise to vote.

To Miss Mitten we leave all our best wishes.

To Mr. Cullers we leave the hope that the next class he has to sponsor will be as cooperative.

To the rest of the teachers we leave the coming classes.

And to the school we leave, only to return to watch the champion Dragons play next year.

Senior Class Prophecy

1952 GRADUATES

One morning I arose early and left Argos for Chicago. I had previously made my plane reservation for New York. The woman at the ticket window was Rosie Castleman. I took my bags to the Sherman Hotel where I would spend the night. Julian Richards, the waitress in the dining room, informed me that the hotel was under the management of Allan Dennie, whom I later spent the evening with.

As I boarded my plane next morning, I was met by the stewardess, Millicent Shaffer. I sat down near the former Susanna Burroughs and four of her children. Millicent told me the Pilot was Gerald Shoemaker.

Arriving in New York, I took a taxi to my hotel. I found the driver to be Stanley Hooker, with his usual wisecracks. Believe it or not, I did arrive at my hotel in one piece. The head bellhop, Don Slane, took my bags to my room, and since he was an old friend I felt it wasn't necessary to leave a tip. Comfortably seated in my room, I turned on the radio. The farm news was on and who was the reporter but Russ Burroughs!

I decided then to get a bite to eat. Up town I noticed a flashy restaurant called "Frenchies". Sure enough, the former Geraldine Smith, who speaks French quite well now, was proprietor. After lunch, walking down the street, I met Max Hagan, manager of the St. Louis Browns, who was on a vacation. He said his friend, Vernon Rohrer, was pitcher for the N. Y. Giants. Walking further on, I saw a pet shop managed by Wilma Rosentreter. Kay Law's theater was next door so I stopped in to visit her. Running for three days was "The Broadway Follies" starring Marcia Lloyd, Norma Fanning, and as the great lover, Charles Harley.

Outside again I saw a sign "Schoonovers". Hurrying to the huge department store I met the floor walker, Floyd Ferguson. I was directed to the President's office. As I expected, the name on the door, was J. L. Carpenter. His wife, Beverly, was talking to him on the phone, as I was escorted in by Mariam Kelly, his receptionist. She married her brilliant aeronautical engineer from Purdue. We all talked for awhile of our classmates of '52. I found out the former Juanita Wallace, Pat O'Dell, and Janet Kesler were farmer's wives back in Indiana. Nadine Mowiser waited for her soldier and now has a family of three. The former Lois Fraker is happily married to a preacher in Marion, Indiana. Don Mahoney teaches agriculture at Purdue.

Mary Lou Pershing is a prosperous dress-shop owner. Of course she's married, but her business takes up most of her time. Although I hated to leave, I had to get my newspaper business taken care of.

I caught a bus back to the hotel. The driver, Mary Louise Peabody, was surprised to see me. As I got in the hotel lobby, I bumped into Jim Thompson who was hurrying to the hospital to make a delivery, so he didn't have time to visit.

After this exciting day I decided to have my dinner brought to my room and retire early in order to get up in time for my appointments next day.

Good Night.
